DUTCH RALLY, ROUT JAPS

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Dutch forces, in a terrific frontal attack, drove the Japanese from a section of the plains of Bandoeng which the invaders occupied yesterday, Reuters reported from Bandoeng today.

(Other dispatches from Bandoeng reported Allied recapture of one unidentified point.)

The Japanese have withdrawn to the north, Reuters said. Heavy artillery fire in mountain defenses to the north could be heard in Bandoeng. In Eastern Java, the Japanese have been pushed back in some sectors, Reuters continued. Indications are that the main battle will be fought around Bandoeng.

•ENEMY REPORT

Imperial headquarters declared today that a "special attack flotilla" of the Japanese fleet delivered the sea-borne attack on Pearl Harbor on the night of Dec. 7, more than 13 hours after the original assault by air, sinking a battleship of the Arizona class.

This assertion came in after-death citation and promotion for nine officers of the flotilla which never came back—presumably blown up by its own hands or sunk by the defenders.

(All official United States accounts of the Pearl Harbor episode have indicated that all damage, both afloat or ashore, was done in one swift co-ordinated attack by planes and two-man submarines.

(The Japanese report of a night naval attack following the early morning air raid would be a natural line for propagandists to take in an attempt to cause confusion or create doubt as to the accuracy of accounts made public by the United States government.

2 JAP SUBS DESTROYED

(The Roberts commission report on the Pearl Harbor attack called it the work of planes from either three or four Japanese carriers with supporting craft and "a few small submarines," three of which were accounted for.

(One was sunk between 6:33 and 6:45 a. m., off Pearl Harbor, another depth-bombed, rammed and sunk inside the harbor between 8:35 and 8:43 a. m., and a third which grounded in Kaneohe bay and was captured.

(The third was found to be a two-man craft of short range and with an explosive charge built into its nose so that it could be used as a torpedo itself.

(On the question of their action, the Roberts report summarized: "There is no evidence of any damage by torpedoes fired by these submarines." The first assault on Pearl Harbor was delivered by planes at 7:55 a. m., Hawaiian time. The Japanese gave the time of the flotilla's attack as 9:01 p. m.

U. S. NET KEPT CLOSED

(The Roberts report said that Pearl Harbor's anti-torpedo net, which would have revealed the entrance of a submarine, had

•OFFICIAL NEWS

Dutch and Allied defense forces have evacuated Batavia, once-proud capital of the Netherlands' East Indies empire, it was announced today, while the Japanese invaders occupied all of northwestern Java and all but cut the island in half by capturing Jogjakarta far to the east.

The outnumbered and weary defenders were withdrawn from Batavia, a delayed communique from the high command reported, so that they could consolidate their thinning ranks in more favorable positions for the battle of western Java, presumably in the high plateau around the military headquarters at Bandoeng.

"As a result of the enemy's great superiority and mastership of the air," said the high command, "our troops are exposed continuously to such violent bombardment that they have been unable to rest for many days and now are gradually becoming overtired.

"This makes the situation serious, but not hopeless," it added.

Jogjakarta, with a population of about 130,000 Indonesians and 6000 Europeans, lies in middle eastern Java less than 15 miles from the island's south coast.

These were but two of the places which the communique conceded lost to the foe.

On the credit side of the defenders, however, was a report that a point previously lost to the Japanese had been regained by a Dutch attack today. Evidently this town—not at once identified—was on the arc of invasion 25 miles north of Bandoeng.

Bandoeng, now the focus of defense, heard artillery fire today, perhaps from one of the three regions of penetration to its north; Poerwakarta to the north and west, Kalidjati to the north and Soebang to the north and east. It may be that one of these places was the town Dutch regained.

Aneta, authoritative Dutch news agency, said it was reliably learned tonight all N. E. I. forces—and, presumably, any of their British, Australian and American allies that were with them, had withdrawn from a great section of western Java, leaving it to the invader.

It was believed, Aneta said, that

Nazi Subs Can Carry 2 Planes, Bomb Midwest

CHICAGO, March 6 (AP)—Rudolf Hasbrook, a member of the London auxiliary fire force, says the Germans now have submarines equipped with two bombing planes each which would make possible air raids as far inland as Chicago.

Addressing civilian defense leaders last night, Hasbrook said:

"This means that Americans must face bombing attacks, not from the land across the sea, but from their very shores."

He said the Germans could bring the subs to the surface at night, assemble their bombers, fly out to bomb their objective and return to their submarine bases. The bombers are stored in the submarine's hold, he said.

During the first year of the war, he recalled, the London auxiliary fire force was scoffed at by civilians until the first bomb fell.

JAP DRIVE ON AUSTRALIA SEEN NEXT

Washington

March 6 (AP)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

A powerful drive against Australia, designed to knock out the Darwin naval base and envelop the whole north coast of the continent, was predicted here today as Japan's next move in her lightning campaign to dominate the entire southwest Pacific before the United Nations can hope to take the offensive.

At the same time military and naval experts said it was probable the drive into Burma would be intensified in line with the apparent Japanese strategy of trying to close the Burma road to China permanently and also place strong forces in position for an invasion of India.

Thus as the third month of the war ended, qualified observers here found scant excuse for any optimism in the whole vast theater of Pacific-Asiatic operations, and the general belief was that barring some surprise action on the part of the Allies the disastrous sequence of events which started at

BURMA LINES STILL HOLDING

London

March 6 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

The British situation in Burma has not worsened in the past three days and both Rangoon and Pegu, strategic rail junction, 40 miles to the north, still are in British hands, a military commentator declared today.

He admitted the position of the defenders was serious, but insisted that "it is no worse today than it was yesterday, or the day before or the day before that."

A dispatch from Mandalay said British army headquarters at Rangoon reported no change in the situation. The text of this communique was not immediately available, however.

The commentator declared that the British and their Allies, Indian troops and Chinese, were putting up "a magnificent scrap," although badly outnumbered by the Jap columns which forced passage of the lower Sittang river earlier this week.

Yesterday's Burma command communique reported heavy fighting at Waw, 15 miles northeast of Pegu.

•OFFICIAL NEWS

A German parachute division famed for successes in Belgium, Holland and Crete has been forced to function as infantry on the Leningrad front and has lost 85 per cent of its men in winter trench warfare, Russian dispatches reported today.

The Leningrad account, identifying the troops the "Seventh Air Descent Division," said they had planned to alight in Leningrad when they arrived at the front last October, but were unable to do so.

Instead, still clad in summer uniforms, they were caught in the bitter winter and thrown into the front lines, losing half their strength in a month.

On the central front, Red army accounts said the German 260th and 263d Divisions and remnants of the 131st were being chased westward from recaptured Yukhnov, 120 miles southwest of Moscow.

Recapture of that fortified city on the Ugra river tightens the drawstring on the Rzhev-Vyazma pocket, the Russians said.

7 Firemen Injured In Huge Wool Fire

Seven firemen were burned or injured, and a million and a half pounds of Grade A domestic raw wool was destroyedtoday in a baffling five-alarm fire at the National Wool Marketing Corp. wardouse in downtown Stillings st.

FIREMAN JOSEPH SAVAGE INJURED AT FIRE
Suffered Back Injuries Battling Warehouse Blaze

Unable to gain entrance to the six-story brick building for more than an hour and a half, because of steel grillwork on the windows and heavy metal doors, firemen were compelled to battle the fire as well as they could from outside.

And frequently, during their fight from the street, adjacent roof tops and the New Haven and Boston & Albany railroad yards, firemen were under barrages of blazing wool-wads shot through the windows by hot air explosions.

ENGINEER GIVES ALARM

At times the effect of these blazing balls in the murky fog, made thicker by downswirls of smoke, was weird and resembled that of the "flaming onions" of wartime.

Fire officials set the probable loss through the fire at $250,000.

David Judd, treasurer of the National Wool Marketing Corp., estimated the value of the stored wool at about $800,000, but said he believed much of it could be salvaged. Most of the damage, he revealed, was on the first and top floors.

"Wool isn't easily destroyed," he said, "and most of it—damaged by water—probably can be salvaged and processed. The greatest expense will be in processing it."

Boston police and fire department arson squads, accompanied by officials of the company and an FBI agent, made an inspection of the damaged building.

The fire was discovered by a New Haven Railroad engineer, David Katz of Roxbury, who was on a shifting engine in the yards, on which one side of the warehouse faces.

He saw smoke curling out from under the metal doors and grilled windows of the building, formerly a warehouse of the old John T. Connor Co., and he sounded the fire signal—one long and three short blasts. The signal was caught and a fire alarm sounded from a box.

ALL WINDOWS LOCKED

When firemen arrived, under Chief Samuel Pope, the smouldering fire had burst into a blaze, and the second alarm was skipped, with a third sounded, and then the fourth skipped and the fifth sounded.

The wool warehouse lies in the terrain between Summer and Cen

3 CAMBRIDGE BLACKOUT VIOLATORS FACE COURT

Owners of three North Cambridge cafes face the double penalties of peace and war-time today for allegedly failing to extinguish their lights during an otherwise successful blackout of the University City—a 30-minute period of total darkness that was the longest yet attempted in the State.

The cafe owners, who are in jeopardy of loss or suspension of their licenses in addition to stiff fines and imprisonment, allegedly insulted air raid authorities who tried to enforce blackout regulations.

"This is a lot of hooey," one owner was quoted as remarking.

Names of the proprietors were taken by Capt. Topliff Sawyer of the auxiliary police and turned over to air raid authorities for any action they deem advisable.

Aided by clouds hiding the moon, Cambridge's 120,000 residents in six square miles containing 27,000 dwellings went through their initial blackout with only minor defects marring the performance.

Hardly had the sirens sounded than two babies made their entrance to the world under genuine war conditions at Cambridge Hospital and Cambridge City Hospital.

M'Arthur Foils Jap Plans

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—The War Department reported today the success of the Subic bay air attack announced two days ago was believed to have dislocated Japanese plans for immediate renewal of the offensive against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces, and that enemy activities in the last 24 hours in Bataan were "negligible."

"I think he's pretty wonderful," says Mrs. Edward O'Hare of Keokuk, Ia., wife of Lieut. Edward O'Hare, naval flier who shot down six Japanese bombers in a single engagement during raid on Jap mandated islands. His feat is believed to be unsurpassed in aerial warfare.

BUY BONDS FOR BOMBERS

SHOE WORKERS GIVE $50,000, DRIVING BIG FUND TO $18,690,331

HELPING TO BUY THEM—Ruth Heller of Brookline holds the defense bond poster which urged Martha McMahon of Roxbury to buy stamps and help Uncle Sam buy more bombers. Both are employes of the Green Shoe Co., Roxbury, and both own bonds, too, as do practically all of their fellow workers.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS! Substantial pledges from three patriotic organizations today added $85,000 to the BUY A BOMBER campaign total and pushed the aggregate figure up to $18,690,331.

The largest contribution was made by 500 employes of the Green Shoe Co., Harrison ave., Roxbury. These workers, conscious of the vital importance of BOMBERS for VICTORY, have set $50,000 as their ultimate goal.

Payroll deductions, outright purchases of BONDS, and weekly STAMP purchases are the methods provided by Charles Slosberg, company president, for the convenience of his patriotic workers.

"Employes and executives of the Green Shoe Company are giving full support to the patriotic campaign of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser," Mr. Slosberg wrote in his letter to the BUY A BOMBER editor (5 Winthrop sq., Boston).

"We are nearing the 100 per cent mark already with $35,000 in bonds already purchased. Nearly every employe owns at least one BOND and many, I am happy to inform you, have bought several.

"In order to save time and extra work for our employes who wish to exchange their STAMPS for BONDS, we have arranged to have such details handled through our clerical force and local bank."

SOMETHING TO SHOOT AT!

The Green Shoe Company employes are to be complimented on their wholehearted co-operation with the Treasury Department in its effort to provide MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS for VICTORY!

Several BONDS to each employe! That's a goal each and every business and manufacturing firm in Massachusetts should shoot at.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS!

From the Square Theater in Medford, comes a pledge of $25,000 in STAMPS. Bernard Stewart, manager of the theater, estimates over 75,000 stamps will be distributed FREE to every patron buying a 25-cent ticket on Saturdays during the next three months.

"This is an effort to reach as many of the general public as possible and interest them in BONDS and STAMPS," Mr. Stewart said. "We are urging all our employes as well as patrons to join in this great ef-

2 ATTACKED TANKERS REACH PORT

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 6 (AP)—Two tankers of the Allied merchant fleets have made their way into this port under their own power after separate torpedo attacks in which gaping holes were torn in their hulls.

Neither ship lost a man, although the torpedo explosions ripped a hole in the side of one large enough for a submarine to sail on into her hull.

The only tanker laden with gasoline at the time of the attack had three-quarters of her cargo still aboard when she reached port.

The attacks occurred in widely separated parts of the western Atlantic.

The deck gun crew of one of the tankers held off a submarine with gunfire for an hour, driving it beneath the surface.

"We lost track of it," the captain said. "When it did get us with a torpedo, only God knows why the gas we were carrying didn't ignite."

2 U-Boats Sink Ship, 31 Survivors Landed

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, March 6 (AP)—Thirty-one survivors of an Allied merchantman arrived here and reported their ship was sunk, apparently by a simultaneous attack by two U-boats. Seven were missing.

BYRD URGES U. S. RECOVER PROFITS IN TAXES

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—Congressional action to recapture any excessive profits made by companies sharing in the $56,000,000,000 war production program was advocated today by Chairman Byrd (D.) of Virginia of the joint committee on non-essential expenditures.

Byrd told reporters preliminary information led him to believe that the potential profits in the current program were so high that the government ought to be able to recover up to $3,000,000,00 and still leave participating firms with a fair return on their investment.

He said he would ask the committee to consider, probably after hearings next week, a proposal to impose recapture provisions on the earnings of these companies.

This should be calculated, he said, to permit the corporations to retain as profits only a reasonable percentage on their invested capital as interpreted by the Treasury for tax purposes.

Mayor Ashe, Beal Face Quick Trial

Middlesex Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford announced today that he will seek early trials for seven men, including Mayor George T. Ashe of Lowell and former State Public Works Commissioner John W. Beal, indicted by the grand jury investigating Lowell and Cambridge municipal affairs.

While the grand jury continued its inquiry, announcement of Mayor Ashe's indictment created a sensation in Lowell, where a political upheaval was predicted.

The district attorney and his aides maintained strict silence concerning the grand jury's action, which accused the Lowell men of sharing in graft and bribes and charged Beal, now a member of the legislature's traffic survey commission, with offering bribes to former Mayor John W. Lyons.

Mayor Ashe

Gov. Saltonstall, who appointed Beal to the traffic commission, said today the indictments would have no immediate effect on Beal's position, pointing out "a man is innocent until proved guilty."

Others indicted included Horatio W. Beal, partner of the former commissioner in an architects' firm; Anthony F. Spinelli, contractor; Walter Connor, Lowell city purchasing agent; John Connor, his brother, and John F. McKeon, former machinery salesman for a Boston firm.

Dog Leads Way To 4 Bodies

DOWNIEVILLE, Cal., March 6 (AP)—A starving, whimpering dog which pulled itself through deep snow to the cabin of two miners, Joe Jossa and Bob Beame, led to the discovery yesterday of a week-old quadruple shooting.

The men, returning to the dog to its owner, found two bullet-pierced bodies in the living quarters of the Bradley-Turner gold mine, in the lower end of Sierra County. The victims were the mine operator's son, Charles Scanlan, Jr., 21 and his mother.

Authorities found evidence of attempted arson at the Scanlan house, and discovered the bodies of the elder Charles Scanlan, 48, and A. Snyder, 30, a mine employe. They were lying at the mouth of a shaft. They, too, had been shot.

Justice of the Peace Acton M. Cleveland said investigators believed young Scanlon killed the other three and then himself after setting the house afire.

Nazis Claim 12 More Ships Sunk Off U. S.

TOM MOONEY, FAMED LABOR CONVICT, DIES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6 (AP)—Tom Mooney, 58, labor leader who served 22 years in prison for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Parade bombing died in St. Luke's Hospital here early today.

Tom Mooney

The gray haired Mooney, released in 1939 from San Quentin prison where he had grown old, underwent his fourth major abdominal operation last Monday.

He was believed recovering satisfactorily only yesterday, but at 1:20 a. m. today he lapsed into unconsciousness and died at 2:55 a. m.

Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted respectively of first and second degree murder in the Market st. blast which killed 10 persons and injured 40.

PARDONED IN 1939

President Wilson intervened and Mooney's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, the same sentence Billings had received.

Throughout the years Mooney fought for freedom, contending he was "framed" by perjured testimony because of his activities as a labor organizer.

Labor and other groups clamored for his freedom and his case went before the United States Supreme Court four times. He was pardoned Jan. 7, 1939, by California's new Democratic governor, Culbert L. Olson.

The Governor admonished Mooney to uphold peaceful, democratic principles. Mooney promised to support democracy. His first public speeches strove for workers' solidarity and the unification of American labor, but they were not fiery speeches of pre-1916.

In his 22 years behind San Quentin walls Mooney became a "cause celebre" of militant labor throughout the world.

LABOR AIDS MOONEY

Then an obscure labor leader, Mooney on July 22, 1916, was catapulted into international prominence by the explosion of a homemade bomb in the Preparedness Day parade.

The explosion, killing 10 and injuring 40, transformed the crowd into a mob, howling, "Hang the dog!"

Within five days Mooney, his wife, Billings, Israel Weinberg, a jitney bus driver, and Edward F. Nolan, labor agitator, were arrested, all on murder charges. They were tried separately, except Nolan, who was not brought to trial.

Labor throughout the world took up Mooney's cry. Demonstrations bordered on riots in Russia.

Meet the Duggans--There're 13 of Them!

Meet the Duggans—all 13 of them. James Francis, who raised the total to 13, arrived last week and not one of his eight brothers and four sisters has even given a thought to idea of 13 being unlucky.

In fact, Mrs. Theresa Duggan, 38, of Third st., Everett, is quite positive that her big healthy, happy family has all kinds of good fortune. And the father, Robert Duggan, 42, a pipe-fitter at the Navy Yard thinks that he is the luckiest man in the world with his clan of boys and girls.

Sometimes, of course, he says he has a little trouble in counting up his growing brood, but they add up to 13 all right.

There's James Francis, who checked in Feb. 26, weighing nine pounds and a half. Before that were twins, Theresa and Tommie, three years old, and Joanne who is five.

Marie, 6; Lawrence, 8; Arthur, 10, and John, 11, attend the Nichols School on Vine st. George, 13, goes to the Hamilton School and Edward, 14, is at the Parlin Junior High School. Robert, 16, attends Everett High School.

Alice is 18 and is a waitress. William, the oldest of the children, is studying navigation. His last letter came from Aruba, off the coast of Venezuela, recently the target of German U-boats.

What does the rest of his baseball team want to do when they grow up? Mr. Duggan just looked at them with a smile and they chorused:

"The Navy!"

Just now they are most interested in doing away with the eight quarts of milk that arrive on their doorstep daily and great quantities of vegetables and meat that keep them glowing with health.

125 BILLION DEBT LIMIT WINS O.K.

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee unanimously approved today legislation to increase the federal debt limit from $65,000,000,000 to the record-breaking total of $125,000,000,000.

The action came quickly after Secretary Morgenthau had testified the Treasury expects to run out of borrowing power before the end of next month and had expressed strong opposition to any forced savings plans at this time to obtain revenue.

"At this time I hope the committee will not force on me forced savings. We are just getting under way with a voluntary plan," Morgenthau told the committee.

"All indications are that the people are going to respond in a big way and you can't have a forced basis and a voluntary basis—they don't go hand in hand.

"If the time comes that I am fearful that we can't get enough on the voluntary basis, I'd like the privilege of coming before this committee and saying so."

TELLS OF BOND BUYING

Rep. Robertson (D.) of Virginia asked how soon it could be determined whether the arbitrary system would work, and Morgenthau replied by about July 1.

He said that 68 per cent of all companies employing 500 or more persons already had installed a system of voluntary payroll deductions for the purchase of defense bonds.

Since the unprecedented borrowing anticipated by the government is for the purpose of producing "overwhelming quantities of war materials," Morgenthau suggested the growing debt "should frighten no one but our enemies."

SEES BIG DEBT JUMP

He explained that on Feb. 28, the Treasury had $1,400,000,000 borrowing powers left and said "it is anticipated that the borrowing authority will be insufficient to cover the debt issues that will be required during the month of April."

The face amount of the debt on the latest Treasury statement was $62,428,068,181, but the amount of borrowing powers used up was somewhat more because part of the powers have to be reserved for the automatically growing face value of saving and defense bonds already sold. Morgenthau predicted the debt would rise to $70,600,000,000 by next June 30, and to $110,400,000,000 by June 30, 1943.

Glass Bottles Replace Cans

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—The government is mobilizing the glass industry on a vast scale, it was learned today, to take over the job of replacing tin cans with millions of jars, bottles and cups.

Cans which formerly handled the bulk of food preserving are or will be unavailable, and War Production Board officials are working out a program calling for sharply increased production of standarized "war bottles."

Present plans contemplate larger containers, manufactured of the lightest practicable weight glass in the most economical manufacturing, packing and shipping shapes.

"War bottles" probably will be well engineered, it was indicated, along lines of the newer types of milk and beer bottles now in use, to reduce breakage and cut down on weight.

Skimmed Milk May Win the War

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP)—War is about to rescue skimmed milk, America's greatest food waste, says the current issue of Chemical and Engineering News.

New steps in drying it to powder are cited to show that in the cargo emergency, it is compact and lasting enough to be shipped to military forces all over the world, and is one of the richest foods.

At home, in a pinch, this compact milk can be transported across the entire United States, the article declares, at the cost of moving fluid milk six miles. The author is Carlos C. Van Leer, Jr., Washington, D. C.

He cites nutrition authorities for a report, astonishing to most Americans, that a dried skimmed milk is richer than whole milk in body-building proteins, and the richest and cheapest of all sources of calcium. It is also rich in vitamins, except A, which goes out with the fat removed in skimming.

The nation produces about 61,000,000 quarts of skimmed milk daily, enough to fill a row of bottles from New York to London, a volume greater than all the milk and cream we drink.

For years the Department of Agriculture has objected because nearly all skimmed milk was fed livestock or thrown away, contending it should be saved for humans because of richness and low cost.

At present, the article says, this dried skimmed milk is sold at retail at 2½ to 4 cents for enough to make a quart when water is added. This sale is in Washington, Birmingham, Ala., and near San Francisco.

Powdered skimmed milk's calcium, the report states, would cost 235 per cent more if taken in whole milk at 15 cents a quart and 257 per cent more if in dried navy beans at 9 cents a pound. One pound of he dried milk makes five quarts when water is added.

One newly solved problem is keeping the milk powder perfectly dry. This is done by packaging in some of the glasslike wrapping materials. Moisture in the powder is risky because it opens the way for microbes to breed.

FORD BOMBER MINIMUM PAY 95 CENTS HOUR

DETROIT, March 6 (AP) — An agreement between the Ford Motor Co. and the United Automobile Workers (CIO), announced by union officials today, provides for wage rates of 95 cents to $1.60 an hour in the new Ford bomber plant, now nearing completion at Ypsilanti.

The 95-cent minimum for the most unskilled workers, the UAW-CIO said, is the same as that which prevails at the Ford River Rouge Plant.

The agreement, which covers the bomber plant on the same basis as the contract signed by the union and the Ford company for the Rouge plant last June, includes the dues check-off provision.

"The wage rates in the bomber plant," said Richard T. Leonard, the union's Ford director, "are based on the rates for the same or comparable operations in automobile manufacturing as established by the union in Ford plants."

He said the agreement also includes a training program and added:

"In view of the anticipated employment at the bomber plant of approximately 15,000 women workers, the union asked, and the company agreed, that women workers shall receive the same wages as men when they perform the same operations. This provision is unique in the aircraft industry."

Ultimate employment at the bomber plant has been estimated at from 80,000 to 100,000 persons.

Errand Saved Jones Seaman

NAUGATUCK, Ct., March 6 (INS)—John Hudson, Jr., 20, of Naugatuck, an apprentice seaman on the U. S. S. Jacob Jones, was alive today because he was sent on an errand and returned late to board the destroyer, which was sunk by a U-boat off Cape May, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hudson, parents of the youth, said they received a letter from their son since the disaster, stating he was sent ashore to get uniform insignia for his commanding officer and when he returned to the pier, the vessel had put out to sea.

His parents spent anxious hours after being notified their son was missing by the Navy Department. Sorrow turned to happiness, however, when they got their son's letter.

AUSSIE PAPER AGAIN BOOMS MacARTHUR

MELBOURNE, March 6 (AP)—The Melbourne Sun repeated its proposal that Gen. MacArthur be appointed Allied commander-in-chief in the southwest Pacific and declared today his gallant stand in the Philippines had made him the most popular figure of the Pacific war.

The newspaper said such an appointment would be welcomed widely by Australians.

J. F. Baker Wins Divorce

John F. Baker of Marlborough st., Back Bay, dealer in church supplies, today was awarded a divorce in Middlesex probate court from Julia A. Baker, Horne rd., Belmont.

Under terms of the divorce, Baker will pay her $25 a week.

Baker sued on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment and at the hearing, some weeks ago, testified his wife's handwriting was on an empty quart ale can left on his Back Bay doorstep. The writing said:

"Glamour Pants Baker—your days are numbered.

NEW AIR BATTLE ON OVER GUAM

LONDON, March 6 (INS)—A big air battle is taking place over the Ladrone Islands which include Guam, in the western Pacific, the Nazi-controlled Paris radio reported today, according to the London Evening Standard.

The Ladrone Islands are directly north of Guam. The Ladrones are held under Japanese mandate, as are the Caroline islands south of Guam.

Complete Freedom Demanded by India

By H. R. STIMSON

ALLAHABAD, India, March 5 (Delayed) (AP)—With new British overtures to India expected in an effort to gain greater aid for the British war effort, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru declared today "the Indian problem can only be approached on a basis of Indian freedom."

Nehru who, with Mohandas K. Gandhi, is leader of India's nationalists, spoke plainly in an interview.

"Nothing else," he told me, will make a vital difference or move our millions to effective action.

"Until they realize that they have achieved freedom and are fighting to defend and preserve it all else is unimportant. Talk of reforms and minor changes and what will happen after the war will be mere quibbling."

Informed British sources said in London last night—the same day as Nehru's interview—that announcement of a plan to grant India more independence, hoping for more war help, had been postponed because Conservatives in London and New Delhi considered it too advanced.

DISCUSSES MINORITIES

These proposals, which had been expected by members of the House of Commons yesterday, were said to recommend curtailment of the powers of the Viceroy, who serves in the Indian government as both minister of defense and of foreign affairs.

Asked what should be Britain's immediate step, Nehru answered:

"In the immediate present a provisional national government should be formed, responsible to the Indian people and not to the viceroy or the British government."

Questioned on the fear of the Moslem League that an independent India might be the same thing as a Hindu India, he gave this answer:

"The question of minorities does not really arise in the present crisis and in any event all reasonable and possible protection will be given them.

"When, sometime later, an assembly representative of the people meets to frame India's constitution without outside interference it will be open to minorities to make any proposals.

LAUDS CHIANG KAI-SHEK

"There will either be agreement or the matter may be referred to an international tribunal—or, ultimately, the problem will be solved by conflict. The risk has to be taken, there's no other way."

(One of the difficulties in the so-called India question is the inner difference among the country's 242,000,000 majority of Hindus and the minorities in its patchwork population, notably the 77,000,000 Moslems.)

He explained that India's sympathies are on the side of freedom and democracy, but that "the vital urge to defend the cause that is her's' will come when there has been an amicable settlement of her demands.

"Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was great and foreseeing enough to break through diplomatic precedents during his recent visit to India and went down to fundamentals," he concluded.

Cut in Civilian Use Of Fuel Oil Urged

HARTFORD, Ct., March 6 (AP)—J. C. Richdale, Boston oil executive, told the New England Council today that the industrial oil supply in the six northeastern states was critically low and urged a drastic curtailment to bring war production factories an adequate supply of liquid fuel.

In an address prepared for delivery at the council's 66th quarterly meeting here, Richdale, a member of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, recommended enforcement of priorities on industrial oil and the closing of all gasoline stations between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. weeknights, and week-ends from 7 p m. Saturday to 7 a. m. Monday.

"If we are to keep New England industrial plants turning out implements of war at their maximum capacity, we must have industrial fuel oil," he asserted.

"For a little more than a month, the petroleum industry has been doling out to its customers just enough product to keep the wheels of industry moving, so that today inventories of the supplying companies and the plants dependent on industrial fuel oil are all at dangerously low levels. The domestic fuel oil situation is not quite so serious, although stocks are far from satisfactory."

Arthur C. Gernes, of the Federal Employment Service, criticised a "prejudice (which) seems to exist in many factories against hiring 'big city' labor."

While many war factories are still short-handed, Gernes said, in New York City and Boston thousands of workers are idle.

He asked that all available labor sources be tapped, pointing out that a "huge pool of unemployed labor is right here at our doorstep. This pool is 'big city' labor, and other sources are Negroes, Americans of foreign extraction and women."

Official U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—Text of the War Department communique, No. 137, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., E W. T., follows:

"1—Philippine theater: Enemy activities during the past 24 hours were negligible. It is believed Japanese plans for an immediate renewal of the offensive were dislocated by our successes in the Subic bay air attack.

"A copy of an order issued by the Japanese army in the Philippines which has reached Gen. MacArthur's headquarters directs the Filipinos in occupied areas to surrender guns and blade weapons of every description, including ornamental and utilitarian knives and trophies.

"This order would operate to deprive the Filipino of his bolo which, while sometimes used as a weapon, customarily serves as a tool. It is universally used as an industrial and agricultural implement. With his bolo the Filipino farmer builds his house, fences his stock and harvests his crops. Hence, if he surrenders his bolo he will find it difficult to earn a livelihood.

"This order is interpreted by Gen. MacArthur as indicating that the invaders fear that the increasing resentment of the natives may develop into a popular uprising against the Japanese.

F. D. SILENT ABOUT NEW ERITREA BASE

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt refused today to supply any further information about establishment of an American base in Eritrea, Africa, telling a press conference to do telling a press conference to do so bomb it.

He was informed that Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of state in the eastern Mediterranean area, had spoken in London today of the would be an invitation to bomb it.

U. S. Base Lessens Threat Against Egypt

LONDON, March 6 (AP) — The German threat to Egypt has been lessened by the British campaign in Cirenaica, Oliver Lyttelton declared today on his return from his post as Minister of State in Eastern Mediterranean area.

Lyttelton asserted a base established by the United States in Eritrea "is going to be a whacker." He praised American material help and said "United States officers and men sent out there got down to the job with typical American thoroughness and worked in closest cooperation with us."

Lyttelton gave the impression it would be almost impossible for the Germans to develop another real drive toward Egypt in the near future.

140 U. S. Diplomats Leave Germany Soon

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—The 140 American diplomats and journalists assembled at Bad Neuheim, Germany, are expected to leave for Lisbon on the way home at the end of March, a Berlin report quoted in a Stockholm dispatch to Exchange Telegraph said today.

About 16,000 United States citizens are in Germany. Some are interned, but most are merely under police supervision.

CAIRO, March 6 (AP)—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the Axis African army in the Libyan desert, has left North Africa to confer with Adolf Hitler, it was reported today.

British headquarters reported a continued lull in actual operations.

DUTCH GIVE UP HOPE OF HOLDING BATAVIA AGAINST JAPANESE

Batavia either had been occupied or shortly would be taken. But the Japanese will find it somewhat a hollow prize. All important installations there had been destroyed in advance, it was said, and many persons moved to the interior.

(Tokyo's imperial headquarters announced today that the invaders completed occupation of Batavia at 9:30 p. m., yesterday, at the end of the fifth day of the Java campaign.)

Bandoeng, 60 airline miles southeast of Batavia, in the fastness of the Preanger plateau with its towering volcanic peaks, was seen as the center of the next phase of the war. It is the temporary capital of the N. E. I., headquarters of the Dutch army and site of Java's young war industries.

Java's situation is "serious but not hopeless," said the official communique, adding that, as yesterday, the battle rages generally over the 622-mile-long island, with the defenders putting up a courageous, delaying fight.

The backbone of Java's communications from west (Bandoeng) to east (the Soerabaja naval base) was broken yesterday when the Dutch announced loss of Soerakarta, seat of a native principality and junction point on the Soerabaja-Bandoeng-Batavia railway.

The loss of Jogjakarta, acknowledged today, marked an advance of 37 miles along the southern branch of the east-west railway. Jogjakarta and Soerakarta are sister principalities, centers of Javanese cultural life which flourished under the paternal Dutch colonists.

"Several places in East Java, including Jogjakarta, are now held by the Japanese as a result of Japanese air mastery and continuous bombardment," the Dutch communique said. "Our troops are tiring."

Among other points believed to be in Japanese hands is Buitenzorg, about 25 miles due south of Batavia, summer residence of the governor-general. The town was said to have been taken after a fierce delaying action by Dutch and British troops.

Official sources stressed that the Dutch and their allies were fighting offensively as well as defensively.

In East Java, it was said, the defenders in some cases even managed to push back the foe.

"Our troops retain their spirit and are determined to make a stand to the last," one authoritative source said.

Continuous Japanese air activity in the daytime has largely paralyzed all but defensive operations, it was said, but with nightfall the defenders thrust out to recover lost ground without chance of air attack.

CORRECTION, PLEASE

As of today, we insist that playing second fiddle is an honor.

Yesterday, the word "Bond's" stood for just one thing in the minds of America's largest group of go-getters—good clothes! Today, let's temporarily toss the commercial overboard. Today, when you think of "Bond's", think first of Defense Bonds.

Frankly, we'd rather sell you a Defense Bond than a Bond suit or topcoat. Clothes can wait. Now, our first job is an all-out effort to beat the enemy. We, at home, must do it with dollars—and in a hurry! Time is short.

So spend, gentlemen—spend plenty, and save! Start hoarding—put away as many Defense Bonds and Stamps as you can. They are the greatest values you'll ever buy—anywhere.

FBI Seizes 160 Panama Canal Maps

By JACK VINCENT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 6 — FBI agents in 4000 raids in more than 50 American cities discovered that enemy aliens have Japanese bed linen, have more than 160 maps and many photographs of the vital Panama Canal, it was learned today.

A special independent checkup of the raids based on scattered reports from the various cities also disclosed that agents [illegible] the 160 maps of the canal, but of various other strategic localities.

Exactly how many maps of the U. S. [illegible] between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, many of them hand-colored, plus detailed charts of the [illegible] to the Mississippi and the Pacific Coast, New York radio and [illegible] have not been revealed.

[illegible] a spokesman of the Department of Justice in Washington said [illegible] the raids [illegible] agents [illegible] seizing messages from the West coast to Japan. One seized at Miami, Fla., was capable of sending [illegible] messages to the Continent, [illegible] to Berlin.

After the raids 1956 aliens were [illegible] to report [illegible] enemy agents of the Justice Department and face internment for the duration of the war. Of the number 1046 were Japanese, 198 Germans and 132 Italians. Most of the Japanese were seized in west coast cities while the Germans and Italians were rounded up in east coast cities.

Other contraband seized included more than 116,000 rounds of ammunition and 110 sticks of dynamite, with enough fuses to explode them. More than 460 shortwave receiving sets, many of them powerful, also were confiscated. More than 750 guns and 656 swords, bayonets and knives which could be used as weapons in street fighting also were taken away from the aliens arrested.

Discovery of four U. S. Army uniforms in the hands of aliens also was reported.

been opened at 4:58 a. m., to allow entrance of two U. S. minesweepers and was left open until 8:10 a. m., when it was ordered closed.

(Hitherto, the practice had been only to close the net during the hours of darkness.

(The Japanese broadcast of the imperial headquarters announcement was not received in its entirety on account of static interference, but it appeared that the statement went no further than the term "special attack flotilla" in identifying the sea-borne attack force.)

The announcement was followed by [illegible] words.

A special edition was issued by the Asahi [illegible] announcement of the [illegible] Japanese fleet, for "having enhanced, as it did at home and abroad, the reputation of loyalty of members of the imperial navy as well as the morale of the entire service."

The imperial headquarters announcement said that the flotilla, "after secretly leaving a Japanese base, slipped into Pearl Harbor after passing through the enemy's guardlines and complicated channels and took up a pre-assigned position whereafter the vessels attacked with destructive effect."

MISTAKEN FOR PLANES

It said: "The instantaneous sinking of a battleship of the Arizona class as a result of the night assault by the special attack flotilla was clearly observed by a Japanese naval force far away from the Hawaiian naval base.

"At 4:31 p. m., Dec. 8 (9:01 p. m., 7, although the presence of two minutes after moonrise, a tremendous explosion occurred in Pearl Harbor sending fiery columns into the air at the same time scattering red-hot iron splinters.

"In a few minutes the fiery columns disappeared, whereupon enemy anti-aircraft batteries went into action apparently mistaking the raid of the special attack flotilla for that of the Japanese aerial forces."

(Official United States accounts of the attack on Pearl Harbor have not mentioned any such attack on the night of Dec. 7, although the presence of two-man submarines early that day was known.)

"At 6:14 p. m. the same day (1:44 p. m., Hawaiian time)," the announcement continued, "a wireless message from one of the special attack flotilla was received announcing its successful mission.

"Vessels of the special attack flotilla are regarded as having either blown themselves up or having been sunk by the enemy after 7:14 p. m. on the same day when wireless communication from the flotilla ceased."

The announcement added that the flotilla had been instructed to return after the attack but no vessels returned.

Eulogizing the "spirit of self-sacrifice" shown by members of the flotilla the announcement concluded:

"The offensive spirit, inspired by an unswerving devotion to His Majesty the Emperor is true to the best traditions of the Imperial Navy, having no parallel in the world. It is the opening pages of the annals of the current war."

Ballerinas Plan Army Camp Shows

PHILADELPHIA, March 6 (AP)—Ballet is the stuff to give the troops a lift these shaky young devotees of the dance said today.

"I believe the soldiers would enjoy the ballet," agreed exotic Karen Conrad, 22-year-old member of the Ballet Theater. "I certainly don't think it is too—er—ritzy."

"I'd say there is a definite possibility that ballet will organize to give benefit performances in the camps. And I can think of several ballets the boys would like."

Alicia Markova Lucia Chase

"For instance," she went on, "'Bluebeard' wouldn't be too ritzy. It's the story of a man who had six wives and tried to dispose of them. I think that would go over."

Lucia Chase, Bluebeard's wife in the troupe's production, but off-stage a wealthy socialite, pointed out the dance is an essential part of Russian camp life.

"Ballet dancers are performing behind the front lines," she added. "They're doing just as much for the war as anyone else."

Successful men ballet artists, she believed, don't belong in the army, because, "physically, it would ruin them."

"A ballet dancer can never pick up where he left off—you can get out of condition in a month. England knows that. She values her ballet dancers so much she sends them out of the country during the war."

Alicia Markova, the dainty danseuse, felt that the escapism qualities of the ballet are the most [illegible]

"The theater reminds you of war," she asserted. "The ballet is a dream, and a peaceful one."

[illegible] blonde [illegible] helped herself to another large club sandwich.

"I must eat something every two hours," she explained. "We ballet dancers burn up so much energy, you know."

SERGT. JOSEPH L. LOCKARD

Pearl Harbor Hero Home For Good Rest

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 6 (AP)—Staff Sergt. Joseph L. Lockard, whose warning of approaching planes at Hawaii on Dec. 7 went unheeded, came home today and greeted his family just like many another 20-year-old returning home for a vacation:

"I've got only a few pennies in my pocket, dad."

His family and his sweetheart motored here from their home at Newbury, Pa., 100 miles away, to meet his train at 3:43 a. m. (E. W. T.) and one of the first things Mrs. Lockard wanted to know was why he hadn't wired that he was coming.

"What would I use for money, mom, buttons?" Lockard joshed happily.

His service record hadn't caught up with his trip from Hawaii and he couldn't draw pay until it did, he explained.

They quickly left the deserted station platform for the long drive home, where Lockard wants to "get a good rest" before he reports to the officers' training school at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., in about 10 days.

That assignment, the Distinguished Service Cross and promotion to staff sergeant came as the result of his alert detection of planes off Hawaii.

Viereck Breaks On Way to Cell

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—George Sylvester Viereck, one-time regular contributor to nationally-circulated magazines, who was charged by the government with using the Congress to spread Nazi propaganda, faced two to six years' imprisonment and a fine of $3000 today after being convicted of violating the foreign agent registration act.

Defense counsel announced that they would seek a new trial.

Viereck received the verdict of the jury impassively last night, but then he suffered a bad case of jitters as he was led, handcuffed, from the courtroom by two deputy United States marshals who refused to let him speak to his wife in the courtroom.

The government declared Viereck described himself only as an "author and journalist," and withheld mention of propaganda activities when he registered as a Nazi agent.

Defense witnesses testified that until two or three years ago Viereck was a regular contributor to Liberty magazine.

F. D. Signs Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—A $32,762,737,960 appropriations bill was signed today by President Roosevelt to provide vast additional funds for the Army, lend-lease aid and the maritime commission.

The new appropriations brought to more than $41,000,000,000 the total appropriated thus far for defense and war during the years 1941, '42 and '43.

Included was close to $23,000,000,000 for the Army, with a clause attached permitting diversion of approximately half of the material that amount will provide to the Allies in the form of lend-lease aid.

Waldorf CAFETERIAS
AT THE SIGN OF THE RED APPLE...

DELICIOUS CLAMS
for hungry folks

FROM BENEATH THE SPARKLING sands of selected spots of our New England coast, washed by the clear cold waters of the broad Atlantic, come those fine, firm clams we use in our cafeterias.

• They are tender and sweet little fellows, full of the salty clean flavors of the sea, nourishing and delicious.

• Now we serve clams in the two ways dear to the hearts of Cape Codders and the folks up around Cape Ann way . . . in chowders and crisply fried. In fact our manner of cooking them comes directly from those parts, and the results smack of the South Shore, as far down as Wellfleet, and the North Shore way up to Newburyport . . . the sort summer visitors travel thousands of miles to enjoy!

• Wednesdays and Fridays are clam days in our cafeterias, from eleven in the morning until nine at night. Hour after hour our counter people take care of the wants of throngs of clam hungry people, who like them cooked in this old fashioned way.

• So if you, too, enjoy a big steaming bowlful of clam chowder . . . or a heaping plate of fried clams, with tartar sauce, cole slaw, potato and rolls . . . come in and try ours. They are both delicious and inexpensive.

2 Daughters, Left Only $2, Fight Will

Fighting to break their father's will, under which they received $2 from a $20,000 estate, Mary and Catherine Sullivan of Newton charged today Michael J. Sullivan, veteran Wellesley town official, was a heavy drinker.

The sisters, employed by a Boston insurance firm, asked Judge Reynold in Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham to submit their contest of the document to a jury for trial. The judge took their request under advisement.

Sullivan died in December, 1940, and his will, drawn in August, 1939, provided a trust fund for his son, Michael, Jr., a patient in a mental institution, and left the rest of his estate to four sisters and two brothers. His lawyer, Harold Loker, was named executor.

A bequest of $2 also was provided for Sullivan's wife, Mrs. Bridget Sullivan, of Newton, from whom he had been separated 12 years.

Of his two daughters, the document said:

"I have made no further provision for them because they have not shown me the respect due a father and because of the displeasure they have caused me."

Through counsel, the daughters argued their father "had been a heavy drinker all his life, had a vicious temper and was a peculiar mental type due to his excessive drinking."

Counsel arguing against the sisters charged that Sullivan was perfectly justified, that there had been trouble in the family for years.

War Refugee Wins Divorce

Testifying as to the despondency and cruelty of her husband after they had fled from Nazi oppression in Austria, an attractive Viennese refugee was today granted an uncontested divorce in Suffolk Probate Court.

Ilse Marie Freud of Hemmingway st., speaking with a slight, precise accent, related to Judge John C. Mahoney the struggle she and Ernst Freud had following their arrival in this country late in 1940.

She told the court inability to find work had led to several verbal altercations during which her husband had pushed her. On one occasion, she testified, he pushed her and she fell against a stove, burning her hand.

Farrington Hospital reported the condition of the boy, Anthony, his fingers and palms seared by first-degree burns, was good.

Games Keep Junior Army Girls in Form

Below is the tenth lesson in the Physical Fitness course, prepared for Junior Victory Army members by Joe McKenney, associate director, physical education, Boston public schools, to fit them for defense efforts.

By JOE McKENNEY
Associate Director, Physical Education, Boston Public Schools

LESSON 10

Recreation in the form of games is the best and most enjoyable exercise, and here are two games for girl members of the Junior Army.

1—Dodge Ball. (Material: Basket Ball.)

Sides A and B are chosen. The A's form a circle in which the B's stand. The A's throw the ball so as to hit the B's (below the waist), while the B's attempt to save themselves by running and dodging INSIDE the circle.

The A's may not throw the ball at their opponents while they themselves are INSIDE or OUTSIDE their circle lines. A player may pass the ball among her team and may leave her circle lines to regain possession of the ball.

From the spot where she picks it up she must throw it to one of her own side and at once return to her place. When a B has been hit she drops out of the game. Time is kept. The game is repeated with sides reversed, and the side which hits the greater number of opponents in the time allotted wins.

SNATCH GAME

2—Club Snatch. (Material: Handkerchief or bean bag.)

The group should be divided into two lines, A and B, of equal number, which face each other at a distance of at least 10 feet. In the center of the space which separates the lines there should be placed a handkerchief or bean bag.

At a signal, the end player on the right of each line runs from the starting point to the center. Each one tries to snatch the handkerchief or bag and return to her place without being tagged by the other.

Whoever succeeds in getting the handkerchief or bag, or whoever succeeds in tagging the other is the victor. The victor moves to the end of her own line.

OUT OF THE GAME

Her defeated opponent becomes her "prisoner" and stands beside her.

The game continues, each player in turn moving up to the head of the line, the victors keep on playing, in order, until one side wins by taking all the players on the other side as "prisoners". The prisoners may not play again after they have been taken. If time does not permit the elimination of one side, the team with the greater number of "prisoners" wins.

Variation: Have two lines numbered consecutively and teacher or chosen leader, calls a number. Player in each line holding number called, runs out from place in line to snatch the handkerchief.

(Two exciting games for boys will be described in Saturday's Physical Fitness lesson in the Evening American).

Naval Hospital Fire Does $50,000 Damage

LONG BEACH, Cal., March 6 (AP)—Damage estimated by contractors at approximately $50,000 was caused by a fire which blazed through the main building of a $2,000,000 naval hospital under construction.

Wooden forms outside the structure flamed so rapidly that the fire reached a construction tower 200 feet high before it was seen.

gress sts, and is bounded by Pittsburgh, Farnsworth and Stillings sts., with the fourth side on the railroad yards.

The Pittsburgh st. side is a blank wall without windows or doors. On the Stillings st. side are windows and hatches on each floor, the wool being raised with booms to the higher floors and swung in board through the hatches.

But the entire building, when the firemen arrived and for nearly an hour and a half later, was battened down, all hatches and doors being locked and the windows protected by the metal grills.

Unable to get in, the firemen ranged themselves on vantage roofs and from there poured water in through the windows whose glass was shattered by the powerful streams.

FIREBALLS BLOWN OUT

Soon the pressure of heat within the building became terrific, and the barrages of flaming wool began through the windows, thirty walls rocketing out even through the water streams.

Flames themselves then began to shoot from windows licking out 50 and 60 feet from the walls and threatening several adjoining buildings. These soon were hosed down by firemen.

A short time later a [illegible] of flames broke up through the top of the elevator shaft and was seen through the smoke and fog over the building.

At the height of the fire one of the huge iron doors on the eighth floor was blown out by a [illegible] explosion, felling three firemen and burning two of them as well.

TREATED FOR INJURIES

Lieut. John O'Neil of Gallivan st., Roslindale, attached to Engine 29, was treated at the scene for burns and contusions.

Ladderman James F. McMahon of Kittridge st., Roslindale, was treated for burns and then was taken to City Hospital because it was thought he might have suffered a concussion.

Ladderman Daniel J. Crowley of Farragut rd., South Boston, was treated at the scene for contusions.

A short time later Ladderman Frank Kennedy of Ladder 18 also went to the hospital, suffering hand and face injuries, and then Hoseman Joseph Savage of Dorchester, attached to Engine 39, was struck on the head by flying metal. He, too, went to the hospital.

SIXTH FIREMAN HURT

A sixth fireman injured was Henry D. Walsh of Engine 31, who suffered a severe head cut when a coupling broke on the pumping engine.

Jeremiah Cronin of Union st., Brighton, attached to Engine 55, became the seventh victim when he was struck in the eye by a piece of flying metal. He was treated at the scene.

There were a number of such couplings that snapped, because of the terrific pressure being applied to drive water into upper floors of the structure.

Meanwhile the fire was being fought from the roof of a six-story building across an alley, one occupied by the C. B. Smith Co. and known as the Congress stores, and from the roof of the one-story Marble-Nye Chemical Co. building across Stillings st.

Several trucks loading chemicals were driven away from this building when the fire was discovered.

FREIGHT CARS MOVED

At the same time railroad engineer Katz, after tooting the alarm, had hastily hooked his switch engine to Stillings st. spur beside the wool warehouse.

With freight conductor Henry Burgess and brakemen James O'Neil and Patrick Lovett assisting, the string of cars were hooked together and the whole train hauled away to safety by engineer Katz.

The firemen were considerably handicapped in their fight by the narrowness of the streets, choked with apparatus, and by the thick smoke, which forced some of them to wear masks even on the adjoining rooftops.

Traffic on the higher level of Summer st. was unaffected, but all traffic on the lower level, through Congress st. and the streets as far west as A st., was rerouted.

Chief Pope reported persons in the area had noticed smoke as much as an hour before Engineer Katz blew his whistle, but because of the fog and the proximity of the train yards they had not thought much about it.

The warehouse is owned by the Boston Wharf Co. and the National Wool Marketing Corp. has about half a dozen other warehouses around Boston.

Only last night, at a meeting called in the Copley-Plaza by J. E. Wells, special assistant to the administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Washington, C. J. Fawcett, manager of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, had said that "30 per cent of all wool in the United States is consumed in a radius of 400 miles of Boston."

New Hope Is Found For Cancer Victims

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Science Editor

NEW ORLEANS, March 6—A sharp gain by surgery in a race with death against cancer of the lungs, foremost killer among all malignancies, is reported at the Tulane University School of Medicine.

The operation is removal of the affected lung, a procedure all but hopeless until a few years ago. In 1932 the operation was still fatal to about 56 per cent of the patients. Since 1940 this rate has dropped to 20 per cent.

Lung cancer in 1938 went ahead of stomach malignancy as the foremost cause of cancer deaths. Most signs point to something in the recent habits of civilized peoples as the lung Fifth Columnist.

A study of these signs, and an analysis of the surgical gains, has been made at Tulane by Alton Ochsner, M. D., and Michael Debakey, M. DMN., both well known surgeons.

Suggested causes of the lung increase have been the great flu epidemic of 1918 syphilis, bronchial troubles, inhaling irritating gases, auto exhausts, tarred roads, radioactive dusts, the almost universal custom of inhaling tobacco smoke, and some chemicals which now are more common than formerly.

"Our definite conviction," said the Tulane physicians, "is that the increase in incidence of pulmonary carcinoma is due largely to the increase in cigarette smoking, universally associated with inhalation. Every one of our patients, with the exception of two women, was an excessive smoker."

They found that the curve showing number of autos produced year by year fluctuated up and down, but with no apparent similarity to the fluctuations in lung cancer. But sales of cigarettes and the lung data followed each other fairly closely.

JAPS NOW BELIEVED PLANNING ALL-OUT DRIVE ON AUSTRALIA

Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 must be expected to continue in the immediate future.

It was noted, however, that the pattern of war the world over was not one of unrelieved gloom. In the British Isles, where fresh thousands of American troops landed this week, in Washington and even in embattled Java indications were that some sort of Allied counter action was in the making.

U. S. NAVY ACTIVE

But the Russian offensive against the once undefeated German army continued to press slowly westward in the greatest achievement of Allied arms to date, and it was believed here that the switch from Burma to India as a gateway for supplies to China would not materially hamper the Chinese forces at least for the time being.

Moreover the United States Navy, in spite of its preoccupation with the world-wide task of keeping supply lines open and battling U-boat raiders in the Atlantic, had so far recovered from the blow at Pearl Harbor that it was extending its operations in the Central Pacific deep into Japan's mandated islands area, menacing the enemy's eastern outposts and supply lines.

NAZI DRIVE THREATENS

Against these evidences of growing Allied strength, bolstered by the steady increase of munitions production in the United States, the situations in Java and Burma and recurrent Axis hints of a gigantic Nazi offensive in the spring weighed most heavily, experts and.

Few informed persons here held any hope that the defense of Java could long endure under the heavy pounding of Japanese land and air forces.

The most expected was that the Dutch, British and American defenders might be able to withdraw to some defensible corner of the island, where like Gen. Douglas MacArthur's army in the Philippines they could form a sturdy pocket of resistance and hold out for some time.

While such a maneuver would pin down a portion of the invading army, the great bulk of Japan's forces would be released for the anticipated attack on Australia.

JAPS MUST ATTACK

Strategists said the Japanese would have to attack Australia for two reasons:

1—To prevent the harassing of their Dutch Indies supply lines by light naval forces and planes operating out of Darwin.

2—To set up bases from which to oppose any Allied offensive moving up from Southern Australia and New Zealand.

To accomplish these objectives, it was said, the Japanese would not have to attempt to conquer all of Australia or further weaken their communication lines by attacking New Zealand, far to the southeast.

What seems to be the United Nations' strategy of concentrating forces in southern Australia and New Zealand may, therefore, escape serious interference.

FT. BENNING, Ga., March 6 (AP) — Mister, that ain't hay! It's a vitamin pill for Old Dobbin.

By BETTY ALDEN

SIX-WEEK-OLD Frances Ann Popham Smith of Bermuda, has a couple of grandparents in Boston who are just longing for a chance to tickle her tiny pink toes.

Frances Ann is the new-born daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Robert Popham Smith . . . Her mother is the former Lilian Fernald of Boston, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Fred C. Fernald of Beacon st. and Marblehead.

Because of the war and restrictions on gaining passports Grandma and Grandpa Fernald have not been able to fly down to see their first grandchild . . . but of course their fondest hope is to become acquainted with her before she outgrows all her babyish ways.

Lilian and Colin, who were married at a fashionable wedding in Boston year before last, are living in Bermuda not far from his parents . . . Their house, a seven-room pink and white terra cotta structure, faces the Atlantic ocean and is every girl's dream of what her first home should be . . . Though just celebrating her 21st birthday this month, Lilian has already become an efficient wife and mother and is active in the social life of the Island.

Just before Pearl Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. Fernald flew to Bermuda to visit the couple . . .

FAR BE IT FROM us to give away a lady's secret . . . but lunching in the Statler Terrace Room the other day we saw a number of our most prominent socialites ordering the "400" luncheon . . . Contrary to what you might think, the 400 has nothing to do with the Social Register but is one of those you-don't-have-to-count-your-calories affairs . . . The menu guarantees that the luncheon contains less than 400 of those mysterious ingredients which people count when they tip the scales a bit too high.

Dropping in for luncheon after the season's last morning musicale we glimpsed Mrs. Paul Reed of Dedham in a jolly mood as she shared a table with her vivacious daughter, Gracie; her niece, Sally Reed; a nephew, Freddie Myers, and Mrs. John A. Greene . . . Mrs. Reed wore a gay spring print of green and white with her black coat and accessories . . . Gracie's suit was as blue as her eyes, and Sally, who has completed her efficient job as a musicales head usher for another season, wore black with touches of gold . . . An orchid corsage combined with sprays of yellow mimosa was Mrs. Greene's concession to the spring we are assured is just around the corner . . . She is director of the Boston School of Occupational Therapy which benefits from the musicales.

Others lingering over their luncheon after what seemed by popular acclaim to be the best concert of the musicales series (Gladys Swarthout, with her rich glorious voice and simple, unaffected manner, was guest artist) were Mrs Frank Stewart, wearing gardenias on her black ensemble, Mrs. Winthrop Jameson whose black hat had two jaunty pink feathers, and Mrs William Emerson Barrett in olive green wool dress and hat with her mink coat.

THE UNCERTAINTIES of wartime are playing havoc with the wedding plans of Susan Brooks, daughter of Mrs. John Edwards Brooks of Milton. Fiancee of Roland Gray, Jr., who is in training on the West Coast, Susan may follow the example of several other Boston society girls in going West for her wedding.

Sub-Debs in Ice Carnival

While Daniel G. Lacey, Brookline's No. 1 blackout man is busy with ARP duties, his 12-year-old grand-niece, Peggy Harrington, is conscientiously practicing her figure eights and difficult outside turns for her role in the ice carnival to be presented by the Commonwealth Figure Skating Club at the Arena tonight.

Peggy is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lacey, long prominent in Brookline civic affairs. Accomplished in other athletics, as well as skating, she plays tennis and swims in the summer at the Longwood Cricket Club.

A bevy of Wellesley sub-debs will flash their silver skates in the carnival tonight.

Mary MacGilvra, 14, whose father Ralph A. MacGilvra, is prominent in Wellesley church affairs and sings in the choir of the Unitarian Church, will appear in the "Pastel" number of the carnival Barbara Harrington, another 14-year-old miss, is also taking part.

The Seth D. Tuckers' daughter, Rosamond, will skate in a blues number. Her father is a member of the Appalachian Club and her mother is active as volunteer secretary of the Wellesley Red Cross, a member of the Women's Republican Club, Wellesley Woman's Club and the Florence Crittenton League.

Cynthia Smith is another little sub-deb who appears in the ice show tonight. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Smith.

The Masked Jury

IF LOVERS FIGHT

CAN THEY BE HAPPY?

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I had been going with a girl almost constantly for two years. During this time we could not get along at all. We tried everything to remedy this, but everything failed.

We kept on fighting and I walked out on her in a fit of rage. But even when we parted we told each other that we loved each other deeply.

Well, after a long time of not seeing each other I finally gave up my foolish pride and asked her to go out with me and forget. She refused and soon after that she began keeping company with a boy who does not love her and who I feel will eventually ruin her life. I was not the type to stop her and, since another girl asked me to go out with her, I did so and enjoyed myself.

My problem is

Should I try to win back the girl I really love instead of accepting this fate of separate, divided lives?—WILL B.

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Woman: Yes, Four; No, Two.
Men: Yes, Two; No, Four.

FASHION CONSULTANT: No Tell the young man to go his separate way and they'll each be happier in the end

INSURANCE BROKER: No. If two people fight that violently before their marriage their chances of happiness are pretty slim.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes, if he still loves her. Lots of times people who fight a lot settle down after they are married

TRUCK DRIVER: No. If his girl already has gotten herself another boy friend he ought to take the tip and stay away. She's cold on him now.

SALESGIRL: Yes. Maybe she is waiting for him to call her and is only going with the other boy to make him jealous

DEFENSE WORKER: Yes. Since he feels that way about the girl he should give their love affair one more chance anyway.

OFFICE WORKER (woman): Yes. She is probably waiting for him to come back and is too stubborn to tell him so.

WELDER: No. My motto is "keep away from babes who are hard to get along with." Life's too short and there are other women

STORE WRAPPER (woman) No. Maybe she got tired of the constant arguing and doesn't want to see him any more.

MECHANIC: No. There's no sense to it if they fight all the time

ELEVATOR OPERATOR (woman): Yes. If I loved somebody as much as he says I would certainly try to win them back And I don't mean maybe.

CLERK: Yes. He could try to win her back anyway and then if she didn't react he would know I was all over

5-ALARM FIRE SWEEPS WOOL WAREHOUSE

$250,000 Blaze—Billowing smoke from huge stores of burning raw wool rises above mobilized firefighters in downtown Stillings st. today as a five-alarm conflagration sweeps through the National Wool Marketing Corporation's warehouse. Seven firemen were burned or injured battling the blaze which got an hour and a half start because steel cased doors and windows resisted the firemen.

Burning Wool—Another view of the burning warehouse . . . with smoke and fumes rising in thick, greasy clouds. New Haven railroad engineer discovered the blaze which imperiled firemen who dared not enter the building even with gas masks.

$18,690,331 for Massachusetts Bomber Campaign

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

The Secretary of the Treasury, Washington

Mr. William Randolph Hearst, Wyntoon, McCloud, California.

Dear Mr. Hearst:

The "Buy a Bomber" campaign now being conducted by your newspapers parallels the plan whereby the people of certain cities have provided funds for military equipment by the purchase of Defense Bonds and Stamps.

The regular purchase of Defense Bonds and Stamps by every American is a program which gives each of us continual opportunities to strike added blows for freedom. Your newspapers are making a real contribution to this program.

—Sincerely, HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU

Here's how to stipulate that your bonds are purchased in connection with the BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS campaign. You will find on the left-hand side of the green application blank, opposite where you write the name with which the bond is to be inscribed, the three words: "Buy for Defense." Immediately above this is a small space in which you can write, "Massachusetts Bombers Campaign." Write only in the space described. BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS. In this way your bonds will buy bombers in honor of Massachusetts. More than $18,690,331 already has been pledged. Story on Page 3.

OUR DAILY CITATION: To Canadian-born John Garand, distinguished inventor, for giving his famous rifle patents to the United States Government. He tells us: "I'm taking no money. General MacArthur's praise of my rifle is reward enough for me."

PROFESSOR MORTON of M. I. T. sees a lining of gleaming silver shining promisingly through the dark clouds of the rubber situation.

Scientists regard the lack of automobile tires as a challenge to their ingenuity and resourcefulness.

That causes them to work harder than they have ever worked before. No potential source of synthetic rubber escapes their attention.

Professor Morton therefore concludes that artifical rubber is just around the corner. Moreover, it will be better, cheaper and easier to obtain than the natural product.

We share this opinion. But why restrict the rubber hunt to bona fide scientists? Would it not be wiser to encourage EVERYONE to begin experiments of his own?

After all, real rubber was developed by a man who had little or no scientific training. And Thomas Edison, greatest inventor of all time, was neither helped nor handicapped by a college education.

It is a safe bet that the inventor of the material which will eventually replace the rubber on our automobile wheels will be some obscure person who probably even now is collecting sap from trees and shrubs and boiling it on his kitchen stove.

ENEMY MUSIC should be banned, says Mr. Percy Grainger, the pianist-composer.

"Music," he points out, "is the most insidious form of propaganda there is. Music of enemy composers should not be played during war time.

"Music has an emotional appeal and brings out the finest and most beautiful things of a people and nation.

"There are admittedly nice things in enemy countries, but it is not a good policy to emphasize the fine points of the enemy at the expense of our music."

Mr. Grainger apparently does not hold with the great poet who wrote: "Music is well said to be the speech of angels," or with the philosopher who opined: "Architecture is frozen music."

If he did, he would hardly think of regulating or prohibiting some of the greatest things that have come from the mind of man.

When a person goes to church and hears a hymn composed centuries ago by an inspired Italian or German, he does not think of Mussolini or Hitler.

The person who goes to church is thinking of God and the words and notes addressed to God by the Italian or German composer make his thoughts clearer and more reverent.

Many of our churches and public buildings are reproductions of masterpieces of European architecture, but no sane person would think of tearing them down simply because we happen to be fighting the present-day governments of Italy and Germany.

It might interest Mr. Grainger to know that during the Revolutionary War many patriots wanted to ban the English language from America since men and women who spoke it were constantly reminded of England and the generally hated King George the Third.

But the more prudent Americans continued to speak English. And they won that war just as we will win this one.

A SUGAR SHORTAGE and rationing of this important food seem certain. Already housewives are restricted to one-pound purchases, and in many restaurants coffee and tea sweetening is doled out as if it were diamond dust.

This situation should spur the New England maple sugar industry to unprecedented activity. Every tree ought to be tapped and every refining plant put into operation.

It should also encourage every person who has a maple tree growing on his lawn to think seriously about collecting sap and boiling it down into sugar.

This will not overcome the sugar shortage, but it might help.

Give me no lover young with love

—LUCIA TRENT.

AM ALWAYS interested in the titles of newspaper columns. One attracting my attention recently was that of a Catskill, N. Y., Daily Mail column, "Around the Town with Betsy" . . . Two more supremely happy wives say their "wonderful" husbands were born on Aug. 20. That makes about 26 "wonderful" husbands I have heard of who were born on that date. Does anybody know of any "wonderful" husbands who were born on July 24?

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. How many U. S. Presidents were cigar smokers? A. You have me there, sir. Only two I can name are U. S. Grant and Calvin Coolidge Q. Who wrote the book, "Why Women Love a Heel?" A. Never heard of such a book. Helen Brown Norden once wrote something called "The Hussy's Handbook," in which there was a chapter titled, "Why Women Love a Heel." Q. Why do you have such a sourpuss expression in your photograph. Why don't you smile? Q. I just don't know what to say, lady. All I can do is have another photograph taken. There have been complaints about this matter before. In fact, I am still smarting under the sting of that poem I received from a feminine subscriber several years ago which went in part:

I gaze upon your gloomy cast-iron phiz.
Each morning as I sit and break my fasts.
Your column wakes and cheers me when I've viz.
But. Oh! The sadness that your picture casts.

SIDELIGHTS: On Feb. 22 many writers again stated George Washington threw a silver dollar across the Potomac. He didn't. It was the Rappahannock over which George made his celebrated toss . . . It is incorrect to call a native of Scotland a Scotchman. Scotsman is correct.

BRIEFLY: Two young women of Baltimore write: "Our names are Dorothy and Mabel. There seems to be a difference of opinion as to what these names mean. What do you say?" My authority says Dorothy means "gift of God" and Mabel means "lovable" . . . Following news item appeared in a New York newspaper of the month of January in the year 1938, A. D. Read it and weep: "The Japanese freighter Magara Maru guarded by police at Pier 16, Brooklyn, where she is loading scrap metal to be converted into munitions" . . . When in command of the Rainbow Division in World War one General Douglas MacArthur often accompanied patrols into "No Man's Land." The General said he did this: "To let the boys know somebody at headquarters was willing to go with them."

KATHERINE BRUSH
A Brilliant Woman

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: If you can answer the following immediately it proves you are an unusually observing fellow. 1. What State in the Union is bounded by the greatest number of States? 2. How many squares in a checkerboard? . . . "That which is loved long must be loved with reason rather than passion," said Bellamy Brooks . . . As to the record for auto driving from New York to Los Angeles it must be held by Bob McKenzie who made that trip, a distance of 3192 miles, in 1938 in 51 hours and 58 minutes . . . "So you don't know any girls named Zoe," writes a Chicagoan. "Boy, I think you're missing something. I know a girl named Zoe. She's a private secretary. In her twenties. She makes $70 a week. Goes to law school at night. She blushes when a risque story is told. A remarkable gal in her quiet way."

PASSING BY: Katherine Brush. Easy-to-look-at writer. More proof that beauty and brains are often combined. Katherine has a great talent in selecting eye-catching titles for her stories. Consider, for examples: "Little Sins," "Night Club," "Red-Headed Woman," "Don't Ever Leave Me" and "Young Man of Manhattan" . . . Connie Mack. Hardy Perennial of baseball. Mr. Mack has been a bathtub singer for more than 50 years. His favorite ditty is "Just Because She Made Dem Goo-Goo Eyes." After that he likes "When the Harvest Days Are Over, Jessie Dear" and "Keep a Little Cosy Corner in Your Heart for Me."

LANA TURNER SELLS DEFENSE BONDS

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, March 6—If K. T. Stevens marries Alf Vanderbilt, she'll keep on with her career. Insists on becoming a Bernhardt . . . A chorine who has been involved in several page one scandals has been warned by a Miami musician's wife to stop late-dating her husband—or else . . . Ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker and Eleanor Hall of "High Kickers" are a slight item . . . The Bill Bertolottis are being silly . . . Town's newest big chick is Olga Coelho, who sings at the Ruban Bleu . . . Ralph Blane is writing a war parody on his lyrics to "Buckle Down, Winsocki." It's being called "Buckle Down, Buck Private" and les sours Andrews will introduce it.

THE ALEXIS SMITH-CRAIG STEVENS romance is strictly a publicity buildup—although Alexis wouldn't mind if it came true . . . The Eddie Foys are seeing their attorneys . . . Maestro Henry Jerome is hoarding "Sugar" Remey, the model . . . Philadelphia's Benny Fogleman expects James M. Landis, the OCD head, to appoint him chief of a division of night club owners in the East in connection with civilian morale . . . Kay Williams and Lex Thompson are making a pretty picture . . . Detroit's No. 1 glamour boy, Chuck Gershenson, and Florence Robertson, the girl horse owner, are the chit-chat of the Florida loafers . . . Lana Turner has organized a glamour girl squad for defense bond selling tours. If you can't buy one from Lana—buy one anyway!

MRS. AL BLOOMINGDALE (the former Barbara Brewster) is desperately ill. Her weight has gone down alarmingly, and her ailment is described as something that baffles medical minds . . . Wedding bells will soon ring out for Jimmy Van Heusen . . . The Bill Keefes are knitting tiny garments . . . An international situation was narrowly averted when Lee Mortimer entered the Stork Club with his Oriental flame, Mei Ding Lee. He was quickly assigned to a bar table—for quaffing champagne at that same moment with George Jean Nathan in the Cub Room was Noel Coy, formerly quite a page in Lee's diary.

FACES IN PLACES: Quiet diners in the Cub Room were Robert Benchley and his son, Junior, on furlough from the Navy. "This is a blow to an actor," says Benchley, pointing to the ensign's decoration on his son's sleeve. "Only one star!" . . . Elsa Maxwell, Bob Ritchie and Cole Porter applauding the new chiller, "Guest in the House" . . . John Carradine, the film villain, stalking through 52d st. . . . Tallulah Bankhead laughing and laughing at the inanities of James Copp and his Things at the Ruban Bleu. The madcap Copp has a new number now about a girl whom everyone mistakes for a duck—outlandishly silly, but I dare you not to chuckle . . . Pretty Hannah Williams Dempsey, who'll be back singing again. Jack has given her permission to resume her career—but only in the "best" theaters.

EDGAR BERGEN and Helen Charleston have discovered each other . . . Anne Vaughn is ill at Doctors Hospital . . . Wheeee! item: Errol Flynn's new $6,000 roadster has a folding bed for a rear seat . . . The George A. Putnams (Ruth Carhart) are lullabying a 9 lb. 2 oz. boy . . . Fred Astaire's dancing shoes will be raffled off for the bombed-out poor of London—and Renee DeMarco's size 3½ slipper is gracing the instrument board of a pursuit pilot's plane on an aircraft carrier somewhere in the Pacific . . . Wallace Beery has been asked by his studio to be a 25-pound smaller Beery for his next film . . . Jeanie Kelk and Warren Duffy of the U. S. Navy are a heart toddy . . . A live deer made an inexplicable guest appearance in the Cotillion Room the other night. Just a prank of Capt. Alastair Mackintosh.

I LIKE Jimmy Van Heusen's new tune, "Humpty Dumpty Heart" . . . Very few places now that don't ration your sugar for you. Even the swank Barberry Room gives you two lumps, no more . . . The Ubangi Club seems to be catching on awfully well with the stay-out lates . . . Most tragic sight I've ever seen is the dead Normandie lying on her side in the shallow river. There, in the cold river, with the cold winds blowing is a sight for tears.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

FROM THE FLORIDA FRONT comes news that nightly blackouts at 9 o'clock are distressing the fun-loving visitors so deeply that the railroads, bus lines and air lines are unable to handle more than a small portion of those desiring to decamp tropical Miami . . . Ben Gaines, the Boston boy who made a huge success of the Dempsey-Vanderbilt (now the Vanderbilt) Hotel, is reported as ready to pull up stakes . . . Friends of Gaines (who once operated The Mayfair here) say that he will see the season through . . . But next year, the reports have it, he will return to Boston and re-enter the night-club field . . . The name Carole Singer keeps being mentioned in New York columns, and its owner is a young vocalist who has made a decided hit with Vincent Lopez' band at the Hotel Taft . . . Thousands of Bostonians who enjoyed the youngster's work last summer and fall at the Cocoanut Grove will be interested in knowing that Carole Singer is the former Nancy Gaye . . . Nancy, or Carole, drifted into the Grove one night, and confided—in a deep-South accent so thick you could carve it—that she had expended her last dollar traveling to Boston in the hope of getting a nightclub job . . . Maestro Alpert gave her an immediate audition, and she went to work that same night.

ALTHOUGH THIS DEPARTMENT has been a constant and loyal fan of Belle Baker's since the days when the black-haired singer appeared in vaudeville (with a baby carriage as a prop and "My Mad" as her heart-stirring lament), it seems that the lady's dramatic and vocalizing powers have never been more effective than they are right now . . . An absolute capacity crowd at the opening supper show at The Mayfair was so enthusiastic than any performer would have done his or her best to please so sympathetic a gathering, but that doesn't explain this renaissance of La Baker as one of the very best female singers currently working in the cabaret circuit . . . Her recitative on George Gershwin, with snatches of the late young genius' familar songs, is superb . . . And she sings "The Last Time I Saw Paris" more thrillingly than anybody we've happened to hear try it.

BOOKINGS: Sammy Walsh will return to the Latin Quarter March 24 (which should be news to the local staff of the absent Lou Walters, who is worrying along in the confused Florida situation as proprietor of two nightclubs and a huge catering establishment) . . . If Lou has minor troubles in Miami, the figures from the Boston Latin Quarter will cheer him up. Business is phenomenal . . . Maxine Sullivan, the slim, esthetic dusky singer of pure jazz, has been booked for May 15 at The Mayfair . . . This booking indicates that The Mayfair is reaching out for "name" entertainers who may be depended upon to lure some patronage away from the Ritz-Carlton Roof . . . Miss Sullivan has been an annual attraction at the Roof . . . The alert Ritz-Carlton management, however, isn't very vulnerable to opposition. We hear that Freddy Martin, whose swinging of a few melodious classics has made him the most-talked-of young maestro in the business, has been signed to open the Roof's 1942 season . . . Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Guy Lombardo and Xavier Cugat are other bandleaders whose services have been offered Boston's famous summertime rendezvous, and—barring the unforeseen in total war—the Ritz-Carlton plans the greatest summer in its history.

SPEAKING OF TOTAL or "all-out" war, a forthcoming issue of Billboard will recount an incident which its West Coast correspondent swears is true . . . The town of Santa Monica, which is peopled mainly by very wealthy families, recently made preparations for a blackout, and the event was duly advertised . . . Then suddenly, it was canceled . . . When various citizens sought an explanation, they were told by the authorities that the blackout had coincided with the movie theater's weekly "bank night." The town fathers didn't wish to make the movie-theater owner "mad," they explained to a reporter, and the blackout was called off.

BOSS WRITES STORY FOR GENE

By Louella O. Parsons

Gene Tierney

HOLLYWOOD, March 6—Darryl Zanuck earned his movie spurs as a writer of thrillers long before he became boss at 20th Century-Fox—and he has never lost his yen for concocting plots. Well, the news today is Darryl has written an original titled "China Girl," and he liked it so well he promptly sold it to himself for Gene Tierney. It's not every up-and-coming young starlet who gets the boss writing her stories. I suppose Darryl saw Gene in "Shanghai Gesture" and while that picture didn't set the world on fire, the little Tierney girl was very effective in the Chinese setting.

Bronston is in New York raising the finances and talking business on another story, the Jack London biography which Charmian London has written and is waiting to sell. Sterling Performances Highlight 'Kings Row,' Met Hit

By PEGGY DOYLE

Warner's screen symposium of horror, "Kings Row," which out-voted the majority of the New York critics by going into its fifth big week there Tuesday, stilled a laughing Met audience into absorbed attention at yesterday's opening show.

This film transcription of Henry Bellamann's popular novel of smalltown life at the turn of the century is a strangely stirring breakaway from the current escapist trend. Its litany of thwarted love and homicidal complexes is suspensively, vividly reared against the macabre background of the town of Kings Row.

Against your will, and chiefly because of Sam Wood's exceptionally skilled direction and some genuinely affecting performances, you, too, are likely to find yourself under its morbid spell.

Even in their childhood, there is a foreshadowing of tragedy for handsome, popular Parris Mitchell and Cassie Tower, beautiful little daughter of the town's brilliant physician-recluse. Tempered to Hays' office requirements, their romance's violent termination is less shockingly explained than in the original novel form.

Doomed, too, is the love affair of Mitchell's best friend, the spirited, well-favored Drake McHugh, and sensitive, loving Louise Gordon, daughter of a sadistic surgeon who misuses his scalpel to suit his demented purposes.

The film unveils a third of its footage before a good-looking, wrong-side-of-the-tracks girl breezes into this dank, brooding atmosphere to waft her wholesomeness on the fetid air.

She is Ann Sheridan as exquisitely groomed as though she had never deserted "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Although her Westmore coiffure and complexion are hardly keyed to her current station in life, she is entirely credible as the warm-hearted waif who meets life with courage and hope. It is one of her best acting jobs.

It is Ronald Reagan's luck to discover her when good fortune deserts him. Reagan, who grows up as well as older, unexpectedly good in his first genuinely important role since Gipp in "Knute Rockne—All American."

Robert Cummings in a role that requires he sound off nobly and repeatedly, does as well as could be expected. Betty Field, Cummings' neurotic, insane sweetheart, gives an unusually sensitive, persuasive performance. As her eccentric, physician-father, Claude Rains is pitiable and convincing at the same time. Charles Coburn underplays the sadistic surgeon so as to make you sympathize with and be terrified of him simultaneously. That grand actress, Maria Ouspenskaya, in the subordinated role of Cummings' understanding grandmother, delivers a starring performance.

For a co-feature, the Met is showing "Melody Lane," with the Merry Macs, Baby Sandy and Leon Errol.

KATHARINE BAXTER, pianist, will give a concert March 17, in Jordan Hall. Artur Rubinstein, pianist, right, plays in Symphony Hall Sunday.

SPENCER TRACY OUTSHINES KATHARINE HEPBURN IN 'WOMAN OF THE YEAR'

They're Terrific at Loew's

"WOMAN OF THE YEAR," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture directed by George Stevens from the screen play by Ring Lardner, Jr., and Michael Kanin with Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. At Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

By PEGGY DOYLE

When Spencer Tracy first reported on the set for "Woman of the Year," in which he is co-starred with Katharine Hepburn currently on Loew's twin screens, Miss Hepburn, surveying him coolly, remarked that she topped him by some inches.

Just as coolly, Tracy retorted:

"I'll cut you down to my size before we're through."

KATHARINE HEPBURN

And what's more, he does, notably in that final peekeasy sequence when, his repentant screen bride (Miss H.) is attempting to run up a breakfast. Viewing her unobserved, the long-suffering Tracy registers everything but impatience as he notes her inept if well-meant efforts.

"Woman of the Year" is the work of Ring Lardner, Jr., son of the late, great sports and short-story writer, and Michael Kanin, whose elder brother, Garson, now in service, rates as one of Hollywood's most brilliant young directors. Brilliant is definitely not the word for the Lardner-Kanin script, which Metro's prima donna submitted to her studio, insisting that they purchase it for her next starring vehicle and only on condition that he-man S. Tracy appear as her co-star.

The keen Miss Hepburn has rarely exhibited better horse-sense. The script, which has little or none originality, hardly matters when Hepburn and Tracy meet up with each other.

They are terrific in "Woman of the Year," which so far stacks up as the comedy of the year co-starring the boy-and-girl of the year.

"Woman of the Year," in the skilled hands of Hepburn and Tracy, is what Boston's recent premiered stage play, "Portrait of a Lady," attempted to be. Like the unfortunate "Portrait," it is concerned with a superlatively alluring newspaperwoman columnist, a heady blend of Dorothy Thompson and Clare Boothe, only in the instance of "Woman of the Year," alias K. Hepburn, the character is entirely believeable.

Tracy, who is worth a baker's dozen of Victor Mature's at the box office, is cast as a sports columnist presently engaged in a typewriter feud with the fabulous sight-unseen lady columnist.

You and I know that the forecast is cloudy and stormy, but these two blithely leap into marriage. Newspaperman Tracy starts using the day when Kate blandly walks out on a small boy emgie she has taken into their home to be honored as "the outstanding woman of the year." Outstanding woman, ruminated Tracy, lifting those eyebrows and speculating if she's even human.

They're both human enough . . . and not even vaguely movie-starish . . . in their misunderstanding and eventual reconciliation. And don't miss that final sequence during which Tracy demonstrates his singular skill as an actor who doesn't act like an actor but is a husband who can cook tolerantly, noting that his heretofore infallible bride can't even boil water.

The co-feature is "The Man Who Returned to Life," with John Howard and Lucile Fairbanks.

Globe's Stage Bill on Sunday

The Globe's Sunday 1-to-11 p. m. vaudeville program will spotlight the talents of the Four Sidneys, fugitive cycling act from the Ringling Brothers Circus; Denas and Dubin, acrobats; Frank Fontaine, who does impersonations; and troubadour Bernie Miller. "City in Darkness," and "Caught in the Act," make up the film fare.

Gary Cooper New Esquire Star

Gary Cooper '41 Academy award winner, shares co-starring honors with Broadway's Helen Hayes on the New Esquire screen, starting tomorrow, when "Farewell to Arms" will be the headlined film.

On the same bill will be "The Great McGinty," that superlatively good writing-directing-producing comedy job by Preston Sturges, is to be the co-feature. Brian Donlevy, Muriel Angelus and Akim Tamiroff are starred.

Majestic's Stage Enlarged for Hit

Extensive alterations are going on at the Majestic Theater to accommodate its prospective tenant, "The New Hellzapoppin" opening there on Tuesday evening. A large crew is at work enlarging the stage to house the large setting used by Charles Withers in the new version of his famous "Opry House." This and other new scenes require 24 additional new "irises."

fort now and to buy BONDS and STAMPS as outlined in the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser."

75,000 STAMPS FREE

The FREE STAMPS will be given "with no strings," Mr. Stewart said. STAMP BOOKS will be distributed to each patron at the start of the drive and all are urged by Mr. Stewart to BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS when their books are filled.

President Arthur F. McNaughton of the Boston Elevated Employes Credit Union announced the purchase of a $10,000 BOND by his organization today. He said it marked the THIRD $10,000 in bonds bought by the union in recent months.

"We hope to bring the total purchases up to FIFTY THOUSAND before much longer," Pres. McNaughton said. "The Union joins me in congratulating the the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser for bringing this very meritorious drive by the government to the attention of its great reading public."

THE TOTAL SOARS

Today's purchase was made by Pres. McNaughton in company with Thomas F. Spelman, treasurer; Newman C. Fielding and Marie M. Campbell, chief clerk of the union.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS!

Today's total . . . $18,690,331 . . . represents nearly enough BONDS to pay for 75 BOMBERS. That's enough for ONE SMALL-SCALE RAID on one of the Axis bases and not near enough for FINAL AND COMPLETE VICTORY.

The United States must have unnumbered flocks of BOMBERS.

We must keep on buying BONDS and STAMPS. And, remember, you're investing in the greatest, safest and grandest country in the world . . . UNITED STATES.

'Hitler Killer,' Germans Print It

BUENOS AIRES, March 6 (AP)—The grief-stricken father of a German soldier killed on the Russian front purchased space in a Buenos Aires newspaper to proclaim that Adolf Hitler "murdered my son."

Despite Argentine's state of siege regulations designed "to prevent anyone from speaking ill of anybody," the German-language daily Argentinische Tageblatt carried the mourning-bordered paid death notice.

The father, Adolf Borstendoerfer of Asuncion, Paraguay, paying tribute to his only son, Johan Wolfgang Borstendoerfer, 22, who was killed Aug. 27, declared:

"His intellectual and moral gifts were of great promise. The fact that they were not realized is due to the guilt of a man by the name of Adolf Hitler, who murdered my son.

"Like hundreds of thousands of others, he was forced against his will into a fight which in his own clean mind he never could approve."

Japs Dropped Hawaii Bombs

HONOLULU, March 6 (AP)—Examination by ordnance experts of fragments of bombs which fell on the outskirts of Honolulu early Wednesday has confirmed they were dropped by a Japanese plane.

Four medium-sized bombs landed instead of the three previously announced by the Army, indicating that another crater had been found in the forested terrain two miles from the heart of the city. The bombs caused no casualties and little damage.

Raid Program For Children

In an effort to bolster the wartime morale of children the welfare committee of the Massachusetts Civic League has established "each family join in creating a program for action and enjoyment."

"Each child old enough should have a special duty or post, such as rounding up the younger children, putting up blackout curtains, turning out lights, et cetera," the committee said.

"Let the children plan games, puzzles and cards for the family to play during blackouts and air raids. Obedience is as essential to the safety in the home as in the armed forces. Without discipline there is no feeling of security.

"Children like to be consulted and trusted; give them specific instructions and reasons for them. The more children feel a part of a definite plan, the less they will fear."

3 OR EVEN 12 CAN PLAY IN GIN RUMMY GAME

Josephine Culbertson, famed authority on gin rummy, the fascinating card game now sweeping the country, discusses partnership play.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Gin rummy is primarily a game for two players, but it is possible to have three-handed, four-handed or six-handed games. In some cases, there are even "round-table" gin rummy games with eight, ten or twelve players.

Three-handed gin rummy is played exactly the same as the two-handed game, as far as the scoring is concerned. Only two of the players can play at a time, of course.

First, the three players cut. The lowest stays out and the other two play the first hand. This is scored to the credit of the winner, and the loser drops out, being replaced by the player who was idle during the first hand. This continues, the winner always remaining in the game and the loser always dropping out.

The game ends when one of the players reaches 100. The scores are totalled, and each player pays each other player who has a higher score.

Suppose "A," "B" and "C" are in the game. "A" scores 106, "B" 82 and "C" 65. "A" wins 24 from "B" and 41 from "C," a net total of 65. "B" loses 24 to "A" but wins 17 from "C," so his net loss is 7 points. "C" loses 41 to "A" and 17 to "B," so his total loss is 58.

PLAY SEPARATE GAMES

If one of the players is shut out, the winner of the game gets a 200-point bonus from him, but this does not affect the score of the player who was not shut out.

Four-handed gin rummy is a partnership game. The players cut for partners. If they are playing at a regular bridge table, the partners sit across the table from each other, as they would in a bridge game.

Each player plays a regular two-handed game against one of his opponents and then, after each hand is finished, he plays the next hand against the other opponent. One players on each side deals the first hand, but after that both members of the side that won the last hand deal the next.

In playing, the regular laws of gin rummy are followed. The "four-handed" game consists, in fact, of two separate two-handed games played simultaneously. However, they are scored as one hand.

If "A" and "B" are partners against "C" and "D", and if "A" wins his hand against "C" by 15 points, while "D" wins his hand against "B" by 13 points, the "A"-"B" partnership wins the first hand by 2 points, and that is the only score entered.

The game is not ended, in four-handed play, until one team reaches 125 points. However, the bonus remains 100 points for winning the game.

MAY ADVISE PARTNERS

If one hand ends in a draw it is not replayed. Thus, if "A" beats "C" by 16 points, while "B" and "D" draw, "A"-"B" win the hand by 16 points and two new hands are started.

With six or more players, there are still only two "sides." Thus, in a six-handed game there are three partners on each side; in a ten-handed game there are five partners on each side, etc.

One member of each side cuts for the first deal, and all the players on the side which cut the lower card must deal the first hand. After that, all the members of the side which wins a hand must deal the next hand. The scoring is the same as in two-handed gin rummy, except that the game does not end until:

One side reaches 150 points in a 6- or 8-handed game; 175 points in a 10-handed game, and 200 points in a 12-handed game.

As in four-handed play, the net result of the various two-handed games is scored as one result. If there is a complete tie, there is no score at all.

Suppose, in a six-handed game, one side wins two games by scores of 8 and 11 points and loses the third game by a score of 19 points. The result is a washout and neither side scores.

One disadvantage of these large games is that the various hands end at different times, and everyone must then wait until the last hand has been finished.

In the partnership games, idle players may give advice to their partners. In the three-handed game, however, the idle player is not permitted to advise either of the two active players.

Tomorrow: When it pays to lose.

Oddities In the News

NOW HE KNOWS HOW

HUNTINGTON, Ind., March 6 (AP)—Mrs. George Saunders of Huntington doesn't send cookies to her son in the service.

Instead, the son, Pvt. Eugene Saunders, sends cookies to her. He's in the Army cooks' and bakers' school at Ft. Bragg, N. C., and his mother says his cookies are very good.

"And when he entered the Army last July," she adds, "he couldn't boil water without burning it."

WORTH CONSIDERING

HOUSTON, Tex., March 6 (AP)—State Rep. Jim Heflin has figured how to pay his income taxes.

He'll go without beer, liquor or wine tailor made cigarettes, radios, an automobile, barber shop shaves, shoe shines, electricity, soft drinks, long distance phone calls, jewelry and candy.

He'll abstain from contributing to political campaign funds, read one magazine a week and smoke a corn cob pipe. This, he legislator figures, should let him break about even.

Dog Returns, Boy Eats Again

NORFOLK, Va., March 6 (AP)—"Peewee" was back home today and four-year-old Robert Gordon, flushed with fever and almost hysterical with joy, ate his first meal since his brindle bulldog ran away from home last Monday.

The youngster has taken nothing but milk since he yet of more than a year disappeared early Monday morning. His mother, Mrs. R. D. Gordon, said a physician examined the boy last night and though he had a fever of 102 degrees could find nothing wrong with him.

Tonight a man telephoned the Gordon residence and said he had found a dog answering the description of Peewee given in a lost and found advertisement.

"Robert was burning up with fever," said his mother, "but he went to the dinner table and ate a big bowl of soup, almost swallowing it whole. Then he got a big bone and ran to the front yard to wait for the man to bring Peewee.

"When Peewee came she jumped all over Robert and sat in his lap."

Fashion

FETCHING fringes are being used as accents for spring suits, in accessories, or as trimming for ensembles in a mass realization of the designers that they're not only smart, but just as becoming as lingerie touches. And more practical! One clever girl trims a sheer wool coat dress with a double yoke of fringed polka dot tie silk, then matches up gloves and a sailor hat. Braagaard has done this brimmed sailor gold, black and red check tie silk with which you'll transform a plain suit into something whimsical and chic. CBS actress, Phyllis Creore, models it. The fringing on the sailor's brim is repeated in a chunky little purse-muff.—ANNICE BRINK.

SMART LATIN-AMERICAN HUES IN WASH DRESSES

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE DESIGNERS who devote their talents to making wash dresses to wear around your home, doing your housework, have done us proud this spring. They have produced a line of wash dresses based on Latin-American carnival costumes.

These are just as practical, and a whale of a lot prettier than house dress lines I have seen in the recent past.

Many of them have very full peasant skirts of flowered cotton and peasant waists of white, or else they have fitted printed basque waists and full skirts of plain cotton with bright hems.

The Kay Dunhill model that's sketched gives you an idea how pretty these dresses are. The peasant waist here is lavender cotton and the full skirt, which is set on by three tucks to the hipline, is deep rose. A wide band of lavender, wine and rose embroidery trims the hem.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

By Martha Lee

IT'S TRULY MARVELOUS the way homemakers have rallied to the cause of sugar-saving—not only homemakers but everyone who has anything to do with cooking, or eating for that matter. In testing kitchens throughout the country, experts are creating new sugarless recipes daily. Many perfectly grand cakes have made their appearance, and there is no question about their popularity potentialities.

Families, too, are co-operating beautifully with the home cook. Most of them are quite willing, even anxious to be the guinea pigs for the new recipes that mother is so busily cooking, collecting that they may not endure sugar rationing [illegible].

Learning [illegible] substitutes for sugar [illegible] in all your favorite [illegible] For instance, [illegible] with syrup, you have a better than sugar cake, and it stays moist longer.

We're giving you today some brand-new recipes, mostly honey-spiced, for sugarless cakes, but not sweetless cakes, since corn syrup has been substituted for the precious sugar.

CHOCOLATE CREAM SUGARLESS CAKE

2½ cups sifted cake flour
2½ tsp. combination baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. almond extract
1 recipe prepared chocolate pudding

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening; add syrup gradually, beating well after each addition. Add ¼ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves, beating very well after each addition. For best results beat cake very well at each stage of mixing. Add flavoring. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Cool.

Prepare chocolate pudding as directed on package, reducing the milk to 1 2-3 cups. Cool. Split layers in halves. Spread pudding between layers, arranging a cut surface of cake against a baked surface to avoid slipping of layers. Sift powdered sugar on top of cake. If desired, sift sugar over lace paper doily on top of cake to make design. Remove doily carefully.

JELLY CREAM CAKE

Substitute ½ cup orange juice for milk in the above recipe and add 2 teaspoons of grated orange rind to shortening. Omit flavoring. Split cake layers in halves. Beat 1 cup tart jelly (any flavor) with fork. Spread between layers, arranging a cut surface against a plain surface to avoid slipping of layers. Spread whipped cream, flavored with vanilla, on top of cake.

PRUNE SPICE SUGARLESS CAKE

2 [illegible] cups sifted cake flour
2½ [illegible] tsp. combination baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cloves
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder, salt and spices, and sift together three times. Cream shortening with lemon rind; add syrup gradually, beating well after each addition. Add one quarter of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves, beating very well after each addition. For best results beat cake very well at each stage of mixing. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Spread prune filling between layers and whipped cream, flavored with vanilla, on top of cake.

PRUNE FILLING

Place 3½ tbsp. cornstarch in top of double boiler. Add 1 cup prune juice gradually, then add a dash of salt, 2 tsp. lemon juice, 1 tsp. grated orange rind and ¾ tsp. grated lemon rind. Mix thoroughly. Cook over direct heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 2 tbsp. corn syrup and 1 cup chopped prunes and mix well. Then cook over boiling water 12 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Add 1-3 cup chopped nut meats, if desired.

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Your nails can always be at the nth of grooming, and perfection of color accent with your spring wardrobe, if you have at your fingertips' beck the wide range of shades a new "color chest" kit affords. Arline Gould tells about it today.

'COLOR CHEST' LATEST IN MANICURE DELIGHTS

By ARLINE GOULD

NOW HERE'S an idea that's going to go down as a classic among beauty brain waves . . . a "color chest" of nail beautifiers that has strictly to do with providing a grand range of lacquer shades from which to choose! Five colors in one kit!

Probably you have your full complement of manicure tools . . . and you buy large bottles of polish remover . . . and you have steel files and emery boards in every piece of luggage you own, as well as on the dressing table. But it's likely that you have a limited field of two full-size bottles of nail polish . . . and when it comes to a subtle variation of shade that you need to make an outfit complete . . . well, you're just as apt as not to skip it, because there's no time for a professional manicure.

A girl in a hurry needn't be censured, we believe, if she "changes" her nail polish color by painting over the old one! It's been done before . . . and it will be again. As for touch-ups that eliminate the chore of doing nails over again . . . they'll do for an afternoon or evening. Why not?

This "color chest" that's dawned on a waiting world is an astoundingly handsome looking buy for $1.50. It's a neat, snapped-down oblong kit of glistening satin, scattered with gold stars, and inside the lining looks like gold kid. In the gold band-niches are six little bottles . . . five of them nail lacquers, and the sixth a famous colorless base liquid to make your manicure last three times as long.

It's a grand bridge prize or hostess gift. And you may have a range of lacquer shades that's related to one basic tone, but going all the way from dark to light. Or you may choose entirely contrasting colors . . . anything from a rich mahogany red with lots of brown to a clear, mauvey red that's perfect for spring blues.

For shopping information on the "color chest" phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4800, except the weekend, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Post-War Markets

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Thursday—I left Seattle at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. I hated to leave Anna, but all is going well. When I talked on the telephone to Washington yesterday, I heard that one of our children and his wife had just flown in. I'm sure he will not be there more than a short time, so I am anxious to see him before he leaves.

During the last day in Seattle, I read two most interesting articles in Harper's Magazine for March—William Henry Chamberlain's "America in World War, 1917-1942" and Peter F. Drucker's "How to Pay for the War." Both articles are extraordinarily interesting to anyone who looks with seriousness at the part this nation must play during the war period, and in the reconstruction afterward.

The last paragraph of Mr. Chamberlain's article is one we cannot spread far enough, and so I quote it here: "We now represent the largest and strongest bastion of liberal civilization. Into our monarchic hands a great human has been thrust. We cannot live up to it unless these necessary tasks already seem as heavy as the Cross of Calvary itself.

To those, and I am sure there are many who worry daily, not only about how we are going to pay for the war but about how we will help finance the reconstruction of the world of the future, I think Mr. Drucker's article will be very interesting.

It seems sensible that the total [illegible] war should be borne by the rich or somewhat group of people but in one way or another should have been distributed to the people of the nation as a whole.

IT ALSO SEEMS sensible that in an effort to reduce the buying of consumer's goods, particularly such goods as are made in the factories which must be converted to war production, the people who buy the greater part of these goods must be induced to buy other kinds of [illegible] expenditures which are available even during this period and to go without many things in the purchase of which more in the future.

On this long flight across the country, I am reading "Education for Death." I confess that it fills me with horror, and I am finding it hard to believe that such a system could exist

Signing That Report Card

DEAR MRS. PECKMAN:

I am very confused as to how I should sign my small son's school report card. My first husband [illegible] child's father, is dead and I [illegible] remarried. My son's name is [illegible] Smith and my present [illegible] is Mrs. Robert (Smith) Brown. If I sign it Smith I really should sign my name as it seems to confuse the teachers. What would you advise me to do?

MOTHER.

I cannot [illegible] see why you [illegible] as it should be. Mrs. Brown [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that would remove the confusion, [illegible] I don't see why they should be confused if your correct signature is written on the card on which your son's name is written or typed.)

MODEL LINKED TO N. Y. HOTEL STRANGLING

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP)—Police said a beautiful former model and a man known to them as Eli Shonbrun were sought today for questioning in connection with the fatal strangling of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, 32-year-old wealthy Polish refugee.

Mrs. Reich's bound-and-gagged body was found yesterday in a Hotel Sutton suite which had been engaged by a couple who registered as Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold of Miami, Fla., and where Mrs. Reich had gone to keep a luncheon engagement. Missing from the body was jewelry valued at about $2000.

Police said that the hotel registration names were fictitious and that they had information leading them to believe Leopold was Shonbrun.

The search for Shonbrun and his striking looking woman companion was instituted after Deputy Chief Inspector Patrick J. Kenny, said a relative of Shonburn appeared voluntarily at headquarters and said he believed "Leopold" was Shonbrun.

Police said their records showed Shonbrun was arrested on a charge of grand larceny in 1935 and that another complaint had been made against him on a charge of stealing a $500 ring from a woman.

The former model, the police asserted, went under the name of Mrs. Ted Leopold. They said she formerly lived at a Broadway hotel where they found seven pieces of her luggage containing photographs of herself and other women—some models, some movie stars.

Last night police questioned Mrs. Isabelle Shonbrun, wife of the caught man, who said she had not seen Shonbrun since two years ago when he left her and their son, now seven years old.

Millions Do Bit On March 15

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service

NINE MILLION men will get the buzzer on March 17 but they haven't guessed my age yet. I'm between the ages of six and sixty and always acting one or the other.

I told the recruiting sergeant how many people were dependent on me and he burst into tears, saying: "Are you trying to turn the government into a good will hour?"

THERE are another nine millions of men who will do their bit on March 15, just about the time when the ground hog runs out of shadow.

Pesky Prefers to Do His Riding in Air

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6—Johnny Pesky sat before his locker in the Red Sox club house. He had just finished his first workout in a borrowed pair of shoes, and his feet were sore. Too, he had taken that workout after a 4½ day train ride from Portland, Ore.

"I'll never do it again," he vowed. "Too long. Next time I'll fly here if I have to pay my own way."

Here was the boy Joe Cronin announced during the winter would be the Red Sox shortstop this year.

Only two years in pro ball, the 22-year-old Coast lad was such a sensation at the Sox Rocky Mount farm in the Class B Piedmont League that he was promoted to the Double-A Louisville club.

"Too big a jump for any kid," the sharps prophesied last spring. But it wasn't. Pesky not only became the Louisville shortstop but he was voted the Most Valuable Player in the American Ass'n.

He batted '325 there, and was a standout both in the field and on the bases.

"This is the chance I've been dreaming about ever since I was old enough to dream," said the youngster born Paveskovich. But the war clouds, and not silver, are now lining that dream.

Pesky is in Class 1-A of the draft. He hasn't been called yet, hasn't had his physical. But he believes he will be called before the campaign is far along.

"I've got a brother Tony, 30, who could take my place and let me be the head of the family," he mused, "I'm making more money than he and could take better care of the family (There is a mother who has been ill for 20 years. His father is not working. There are three brothers and two sisters). But Tony's not too well himself, and I'm afraid something might happen to him if he went into the service. So it's up to me, and I'll go when they call me, even though it shatters a life-long ambition."

Signed by Sox on Graduation

Pesky's been playing baseball ever since he can remember. His early boyhood idol was Mickey Cochrane, so he started out as a catcher. (Mickey played a year at Portland before he went up to stick with the A's in '25). Pesky played second base in high school and never played short until four years ago.

Way back in '32, when he was only 12, Pesky was the bat boy for the Portland Coast League team. Pinky Higgins and Lou Finney were with the club then, it being affiliated with the A's. He was bat boy again in '33, clubhouse boy in '34, '35 and '39. He worked out with the club every day. They had to shoo him from the park at night.

Baseball was his passion. He dreamed it, ate it and slept it. His sole ambition in life was to become a major leaguer and to that end he starred in high school and in semi-pro ball.

Semi-pro ball is quite a sport on the West Coast, and in '37, while still in high school, he played for Silverton, Ore., against the Tacoma team which Earl Johnson pitched for.

He improved each year until in '39 Ernie Johnson, Red Sox West Coast scout, tied him up on his graduation from high school.

His progress has been meteoric.

Imagine being voted the Most Valuable player in the American Ass'n at 21, with players like Babe Baina, Oscar Judd, Roy Sanders, Berthold Haas and others in the league. That is something to remember even if he never puts on another glove.

He's built like Phil Rizzuto of the Yanks, a stocky kid of 5 9½, weighing 165 pounds, a stylish fielder and a natural hitter. He's most adept at bunting, and although he doesn't hit a long ball like his rival, Eddie Pellagrini, he makes an ideal leadoff man because he always seems to be on base. He scored 93 runs last year.

He doesn't smoke and he doesn't drink. All he lives for is baseball. But he's just a bit puzzled now wondering when Uncle Sam will be ordering him to take another 4½ day train ride back to Oregon to be inducted into the Army.

ROOSEVELT BACKS NIGHT GAMES, SAYS MORALE ACTIVITIES VITAL

WASHINGTON, March 6 (INS)—Despite possibility of blackouts, President Roosevelt today still held to the contention that night baseball is a sound contribution to the public morale and should be continued. At the same time, however, the President requested the newspapers of the country to act as a medium for him in requesting government establishments in every section of the country to save every possible kilowatt of electricity through a minimum use of lights.

The President told his press conference that he had been asked to send notices to every agency head in the country requesting an immediate savings in electricity as a highly-needed contribution to the war effort.

ALL ASKED TO SAVE

Rather than spend the money and time to send these notices out, however, he requested the press to convey the message.

This savings in electricity should be undertaken by the civilian population as well, the President added.

A reporter promptly brought up the question of night baseball, which the President advocated in a letter last January to Judge Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball.

The President promptly asserted that there are certain activities connected with the morale of the nation which must go on.

He noted that if those who went to night baseball games turned out lights at home it would just about equalize the light used at the ball park.

BLACKOUTS LOCAL MATTERS

The question of blackouts was raised, one reporter saying that lights from ball parks could be seen from the air from considerable distances and might serve as beacons even before an alert could be sounded.

Mr. Roosevelt shrugged his shoulders and with a wave of his hand said this depended a little on where in the country the ball game was being played. He closed the subject on night baseball by saying it would have to be treated locally.

La Salle Drops Gridiron Game 'For Duration'

PHILADELPHIA, March 6 (AP)—The war cut into the Philadelphia collegiate athletic field today, sweeping aside football at La Salle College.

James Henry, athletic director and grid coach, announced that the sport would be dropped for the duration because the great number of students in the military service has so depleted the squad that we find it impractical to maintain football on the desired basis."

Don Montero and Tom McCarthy co-captains-elect of the 1942 team already have left for the Army and several more varsity players are on call.

All members of the coaching staff will be kept to direct a broad intramural sports program, said Brother Emilian James, college president.

La Salle made football a major sport in 1931 and its best team was that coached by Marty Brill, former Notre Dame star, which in 1934 went undefeated and upset Villanova.

It has a tentative schedule for this fall arranged with Providence, St. Anselm, Canisius, Scranton U., Mt. St. Mary's, Niagara U., Blue Ridge and U. P. M. C.

Boxers Thrill Night Workers

PATERSON, N. J., March 6 (AP)—A crowd of 1000 night-shift aircraft workers at an "owl" boxing show witnessed a thrill-packed 35-second bout at 3:30 this morning.

Larry Lane, 180, of Trenton, one of the East's top flight heavyweights, had hardly answered the bell for the first round of a scheduled six when Bob Harris, 178, of Brooklyn, N. Y., felled him with a powerful right to the face.

Lane didn't wait for a count, clambered to his feet and landed the next blow, a terrific right, full on Harris' jaw. Harris went down for 10 and out.

Ex-Chain Ganger

B's Kluttz Looks Good

By BILL GRIMES

SANFORD, Fla., March 6—Four years ago, Clyde Kluttz, the young catcher the Braves drafted from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League, paid his own expenses from his home at Salisbury, N. C., to Winter Haven, Fla., to attend one of Branch Rickey's St. Louis Cardinals' baseball schools.

Rickey had almost 200 at the school that year. Remember, the spring that Rickey decided to convert Don Padget from an outfielder to a catcher? Well, that was the year that Kluttz made the "Chain Gang."

During the two years, he attended Catawba College, which is located in his home town. Kluttz was a pitcher. He was rated high among the Carolina college hurlers. So in the winter of 1938 he decided to pass up his opportunity to receive a degree, packed his bag and grabbed a bus for Winter Haven.

IT WAS A GOOD GUESS

In due time, Kluttz reached Rickey with listing of pitcher. About two days later Rickey without even consulting the youngster, told Kluttz to get behind the bat.

So, with one stroke of his magic wand, Rickey changed a pitcher of considerable merit, into a catcher. Naturally, Rickey was criticized by those who had placed their stamp of approval on Kluttz's ability as a pitcher.

Although there's no way of telling how far Kluttz would have gone as a mound artist, one cannot get away from the fact that Rickey made a very good guess when he decided that Kluttz could be developed into a receiver who would be an asset to the Cardinals' "Chain Gang."

Despite the fact that he'd never caught a game in his career until after he had checked in with Rickey, Kluttz made such an impression that he was sent to the Ashville club of the Piedmont League. Then he moved up to

Ryan Gives Mel Ott First Division Hopes

MIAMI, March 6 (AP)—More baseball fans are asking about the New York Giants than about any other club, apparently under the impression that the grand old team that the great John McGraw made famous is about to stage a comeback. To many thousands of diamond bugs that never saw a big league game, the Giants still are the most glamorous outfit of them all, even after three years in the second division.

First, they always ask if the team has added enough strength to win the National League flag, and the answer to that one is no, that there are three other clubs with too much pitching strength — Brooklyn, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

To the second question, whether Young Mel Ott packs enough weight to make a really good manager, the answer is yes, sir. He does.

The boy from New Orleans is leaving no doubt in anybody's mind about who is running the show. He is friendly enough with the fellows who have been his teammates all these years and still speaks quietly, but it is necessary to be around their camp here only about five minutes to discover that he means to be the boss.

OTT FIRM WITH BOYS

Mel is pleasant enough, but he also is quick and firm in his orders. He is going to do all right

About his team, he says in his easy drawl

"I would say that a lot depends on two things, how Connie Ryan does at second base and whether we can come up with a good young pitcher, one that can win maybe a dozen or 15 games. If Ryan is as good as he looks to me now and I find that pitcher, we're going to be a mighty good club. I wouldn't like to guess where we'll finish, but it shouldn't be in the second division."

Ryan is a youngster who hit an even .300 for Atlanta last year and knocked in 83 runs. He is a hustler and looks like he might make the Giants their first competent second baseman since Burgess Whitehead was at his best several years ago. Ott will be satisfied if Ryan hits no better than .275, providing he gives the club a good double-play combination and takes some of the pressure off the pitching staff.

SEEKS TO AID PITCHERS

"That's the main thing we want to do, take the weight off our pitchers," Ott explained. "I think we'll do it, too. I know we're going to give them more runs. He should have an occasional big inning with fellows like Billy Werber, Johnny Rucker, Johnny Mize and Hank Leiber up there in the top of the order."

Through modesty, no doubt, Mel failed to mention that he would be in there cocking his right leg and clouting the ball every now and then, himself. Furthermore, he has a strapping, dark outfielder named Herb Barna who batted .336 and pounded in 105 runs for Minneapolis last year.

The team might turn up with more sheer power than any outfit in the league except Brooklyn. And it will make even the Dodger swatsmiths hump themselves if Mize should recapture his hitting form of a few years back. The big fellow has an ailing shoulder right now.

Everybody on the club fully expects Harry Danning to come back fighting under Ott's leadership and again be the best catcher in the league. That would put still another .300 shouter in the line-up. And if Billy Jurges has a good year at shortstop it will be a good-looking team all around. Except for its pitching.

"That's the problem," Mel admitted, "but I honestly have hopes.

22 Enter Widener; Alsab In

MIAMI, Fla., March 6 (AP) — Twenty-two horses, including Al Sabath's 1941 juvenile champion Alsab, were entered today in the $50,000 Widener Handicap — and Hialeah Park officials were faced with the possibility of an overflow field.

As Trainer August Swenke went into the secretary's office to file Alsab's entry, he asked someone:

"Do you think that Alsab could win this race if he were as good as he was last year?"

"Yes," was the reply.

HE'S JUST AS GOOD

"Well, he's just as good," Swenke declared.

The only horse considered a likely starter which actually was not entered was Samuel D. Riddle's War Relic. Riddle was reported displeased with the assigned weight of 126 pounds.

The entries, with their assigned weights:

Miolland, 128; Challedon, 126; Pictor, 126; Attention, 125; Market Wise, 125; Our Boots, 121; Dit, 120; Porter's Cap, 117; Get Off, 114; Best Seller, 112; Great Union, 112.

Pomayya, 111; Grampa, 110, Alsab, 109; The Rhymer, 109; Llanero, 108; Minnebusa, 108; Riding Light, 108; Waller, 108; Olympus, 107; Delray, 105; and City Talk, 105.

In the event the 22 could run at one time, a victory would be worth $56,150.

RACE MAY BE SPLIT

The big field named for the event gave track officials a problem as the starting gate accommodates only 14 horses. A few can get off from outside the stalls, but racing rules require that each be allowed five feet of room.

There was immediate talk of the possibility of dividing the event into two $50,000 races, but this would be a last resort. A precedent for two races was set at Hialeah in last year's $10,000 McLennan Handicap

The track had to split the $5000 Juvenile Stake, tomorrow's supplementary feature. Both races will be $5000 events, in accordance with the conditions under which the nominations were made.

Fourteen 2-year-olds will run in one of the races, 13 in the other.

The usual eight-race program will be expanded to nine, and proceeds from the added event will go to charity.

A decision on the Widener dilemma was expected later.

Attendants were ascertaining whether two starting gates could be hooked together so that 22 stalls would be provided.

One alternative open to the track was an old-fashioned start, without the use of the gate.

Waterfront Passes For Coastal Anglers

Sportsmen, now putting their fishing tackle into shape, were notified today by the Massachusetts Fish and Game Ass'n that if they plan to try surf casting this season they must have Coast Guard waterfront identification cards.

Every one fishing in the salt waters of Massachusetts, the association's warning said, must have an identification card.

POOR FISH—The finny folk wouldn't seem to have a chance, judging from this lineup at Long Beach, Cal., warming up for the surf casting tournament starting tomorrow. If you don't mind big hooks swishing around your head and fighting over fouled lines, this sport can be lots of fun.

Braves Appear To Have 'Good Thing' in Kluttz

Decatur of the Three Eye League, with stopovers at Johnson City and Kilgore.

While Kluttz was at Decatur, a year ago, "Pepper" Martin wired Rickey for a catcher for his Sacramento club. Rickey didn't know of a catcher who could help Martin and finally wired Gene Wylie, manager of the Decatur club, asking him if he knew of a catcher who had the ability to "go" in the Pacific Coast League. Without the slightest hesitation Wylie recommended Kluttz. Rickey didn't think Kluttz had had enough experience to make the grade, but having no other replacement available he decided to gamble on Wylie's opinion. And Mr. Kluttz made good with a vengeance.

LAUDED BY COLEMAN

The P. C. L. season was well underway when Kluttz reported at Sacramento. He caught 83 games for Sacramento and came up with a batting average of .366 which topped Nanny Fernandez by nine points. But, because he had played in less than 100 games, the batting title went to the Missions' shortstop.

Bob Coleman Braves' farm manager saw plenty of Kluttz when the youngster was at Decatur and thinks the world of him.

"Kluttz is a great hustler," Coleman told your observor. "He's a smart kid and during the time he was at Decatur he was the best catcher in the league, and, though he'd been catching only two seasons, you could see that he was a comer and, moreover, that he was coming rapidly.

"Bear in mind," continued Coleman, "as late as last June, Kluttz was in the Three Eye League. In less than one season, he went from Class B to the National League."

It looks like the Braves have a promising catcher in the 23-year-old 193 pound, six-foot Clyde Kluttz.

WILLIAMS TO JOIN NAVY AFTER DIAMOND SEASON

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6—With Ted Williams reported on the way south from Minneapolis to join his teammates, the Red Sox got down to serious business today.

Skipper Joe Cronin has a field full of candidates and now that he knows who will be on hand, the big job starts of molding a nine-man aggregation for opening day.

His big question—of whether he would have the big bat of Teddy Williams on hand has been settled by the youngster himself, and that decision was that he will face the season the hard way, sticking to what he feels deep in his heart is the right path for him.

JOIN NAVY IN SEPTEMBER

"I am as patriotic as anybody," said the boy who annexed the batting championship with a .406 average last year.

"I want to get into this thing, but because of commitments I made last year, when I was in 3-A classification, I am up against it.

"The quickest route to a solution is to get with the Red Sox, earn some big dough, take care of my obligations. Then, just as soon as I lay down my bat for the last time in September or October, I'm in that Navy—and quick, too.

"I certainly do not feel that I have committed any crime or done anything dishonest, and if I wasn't sincere I wouldn't be picking what is not going to be any bed of roses."

Teddy made this statement to reporters in Minneapolis just before he shoved off for the winter training camp here.

"LITTLE PROFESSOR" SIGNS

Latest arrival here is Lou Finney, who pulled into camp in time for the abbreviated afternoon workout. He said he has been too busy with his farm in Buffalo, Ala., to reach here any sooner.

The "Little Professor"—Dom DiMaggio, has ended his short-lived holdout. Dom, who has taken care of the center field duties for the last two seasons, agreed to terms in a long distance telephone conversation with Eddie Collins.

Jockey Mehrtens Riding Prize in Danger

MIAMI, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Apprentice jockeys are in a neck-to-neck race for a Hialeah Park prize for the leading rider at the meeting which closes tomorrow.

As today's program opened, Warren Mehrtens held an edge with 29 victories, but he became a veteran rider Feb. 21 and could not add to his total.

He still could claim the award, however, provided Willie Day, with 26 triumphs, and Eddie Wiclander, with 25, failed to reach his total.

Camp Action

Up from the Braves' training camp at Sanford, Fla., come these pictures of the Tribe . . . faces old and new. One of the new faces belongs to Catcher Clyde Kluttz, up from Sacramento, who goes for a bunt hit by Casey Stengel.

High One

Looking pretty capable around first base is young Frank McElyea, 6-foot, 3-inch rookie, who hopes to patrol that bag out at Braves Field this year.

MANAGER STENGEL WORRIED OVER CONDITION OF WARREN SPAHN

By BILL GRIMES

SANFORD, Fla., March 6—In all the years that he has taken Boston clubs South for spring training Pres. Bob Quinn has never had a finer ball park at this Municipal Field . . . The players are delighted with the playing condition, particularly those who were at San Antonio a year ago and at Bradenton from '38 through '40 . . . Municipal Field is less than one mile from the Hotel Mayfair.

You'd never know that Ernie Lombardi had ever played with a club that won the National League pennant . . . He's not very talkative, but he's very pleasant to meet . . . And, he has been "cowtailing" that ball . . . He gets a great laugh out of telling about the bunt he beat out last year at Pittsburgh . . . Lee Handley, the Pirates' third sacker, was playing a short left field and Ernie laid one down the line and won the decision over Handley in a photo finish.

John Hutchins tipped the scales at 250 just before going out for the opening practice session . . . But he's very solid and cannot hope to get off more than 15 pounds, even though he's one of the hardest workers on the squad . . . Warren Spahn, the 20-year-old southpaw, who won 19 games for Bob Coleman at Evansville of the Three-I League last season, is 15 pounds lighter than he was last fall.

During the off-season, Spahn worked from midnight until 8 a. m. . . . Manager Casey Stengel is worried over Spahn's condition and already has put the youngster on a special diet . . . Al Montgomery, who will battle Phil Masi for the third catcher's berth, is in the Lou Gehrig picture.

"Lefty" O'Connor, the Brockton boy, who is here as Bob Quinn's guest and who will go to Evansville, is a "ringer" for Ted Williams . . . He's a string bean, wears his pants very low and takes a good, healthy cut . . . And, moreover, he has connected with some of the longest drives the batterymen have made.

Although Jim Tobin, who beat the barrier by working out for a couple of days before the squad reported, hit one off the left field fence, Phil Masi connected with the first homer after the training had been officially opened.

Frank McElyea, who is on the Hartford list, will be given a thorough tryout at first base . . . If he looks like he's ready, the Braves will purchase him from their farm club . . . He looks better defensively than he did at San Antonio, but it's too early to pass judgment on his hitting . . . McElyea is 6-6, weighs 205 and is right-handed all around . . . Two years ago he hit .401 at Owensboro, Ky . . . He got off to a bad start at Evansville last year and didn't get straightened away until the middle of June . . . But from then on he really "cut the mustard," and wound up hitting .286 and stealing 46 bases.

Jim Tobin is in great shape . . . He drove an American Express Co. truck all winter and reported 21 pounds lighter than last spring.

Father-Son Ski Match On Weekend

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Skiing is a sport for all ages. In many families, it is not uncommon to see mother, father and three and four little ones of various sizes all skiing the trails and slopes. While running the famous Nose Dive Trail on Mt. Mansfield recently, we were amazed to see a man follow his two sons, aged 10 and 12 respectively, down its steep curves and schusses. The more difficult the trail, the more the youngsters liked it.

In keeping with this trend, qualified skiers have been invited to enter the first sanctioned Father and Son Tournament, to be held at Manchester, Vermont, Saturday and Sunday. The downhill race will be contested on the Shinecracker Schuss on Bromley Meadows, near Peru, at 1:00 p. m. tomorrow, and the slalom on either Bromley Meadows or at Snow Valley, at 11:00 a. m., Sunday.

The races are limited to registered senior and junior members of the U. S. E. A. S. A., and there will be no age limitation. However, each father must certify that his son is fully capable of skiing in competition such as this, without undue possibility of injury.

Both the father and son must complete the downhill and slalom in order that their combined time be considered in the result. The winning team will receive a father and son trophy to be held for one year, and suitable prizes will be awarded for the team placing in each event and the combined event. Here is where many a dad will take a skiing lesson from his son.

The longest and most unique race in the East will be conducted tomorrow on Cannon Mountain in Franconia Notch, N. H. This event will be the Thorner Cup Race, sponsored by the Thorner House Ski Club of Franconia. Covering a distance of FIVE MILES and dropping over 3000 feet, there will be intermittent climbs of 300 and 400 feet during the course of the run.

HARVARD FIGHTS TO FORCE YALE TO 'RUBBER'

The Harvard varsity hockey team will be trying extra hard to win the second game with Yale tomorrow night at New Haven, not only to revenge the 4-2 loss last week, but to completely justify Johnny Chase's claim to fame as the ice coach of the year.

With no official coaching experience, the former Crimson hockey captain took over Clark Hodder's job in mid-season with only a mediocre sextet that played slow-breaking hockey.

Chase instilled a newer, faster brand of passing, with the emphasis on getting the disc away from the Crimson zone as fast as possible. While the change in the appearance of play was apparent immediately, no real benefit resulted until the past two weeks, when Harvard battled powerful Dartmouth to a 9-5 defeat, defeated B. U., 3-2, lost brilliantly to Yale, 4-2, and scored a smashing upset over the fast Princeton sextet Wednesday night, 5-2.

Chief cogs in the recent Crimson spurt have been Forwards Cal Loring, Dick Harding and Marc Beebe; Centers Gordie McGrath and Earl Acker, and Defensemen Johnny Paine, Chuck Griffith, Greely Summers and George Dreher.

Ab Fenn, in goal, who has played well, bows out of hockey competition with six other seniors, including Summers, McGrath, Lloyd, Griffith, Elliott and Dreher. It will be their last game unless Harvard wins and forces a third game to be played.

The Crimson freshmen, undefeated in 14 games, tackle the undefeated Eli frosh tomorrow night, also at New Haven.
